

Labor 'Peace Act' Approved By Assembly

Measure Expected to Reach Senate in Few Days
VOTE IS 53 TO 43

Brief Debate Precedes Final Action in Lower House

Madison—(AP)—The assembly passed the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture's "employment peace act" today, 53 to 43.

Unless a reconsideration vote causes delay, the bill will be sent to the senate within a day or two. It establishes a new board in place of the labor relations board, prohibits sit-down and minority strikes and secondary boycotts, requires 10 day notice for a strike which would cause destruction of farm products, and requires a three-fourths vote for a closed shop.

Debate was brief as opponents and supporters made final statements.

Progressives Biemiller and Grobbschmidt, Milwaukee, and Harvey, Racine, attacked the bill. Biemiller said it would hamper craft unions and claimed it was introduced "either because of an attempt to cripple labor, or through absolute ignorance."

Budlong Asks Passage
Budlong (R) Marinette, urged passage. He said the bill would place the farmer and laboring man on an equal basis.

Peterson (R) Berlin, and Goldthorpe (R) Cuba City, asserted the bill would help labor and promote industrial peace. Peterson sponsored the measure.

Cattlin Bill Backed
The assembly refused to reconsider the vote by which it passed the Cattlin labor bill prohibiting "stranger picketing" and restricting labor disputes to an employer-employee basis. It now goes to the senate.

Hinz (R) Ripon, made a motion to reconsider yesterday's action which killed the Fitzsimons "working wives" bill. Vote on the motion will be taken next week.

After rejecting one amendment and adopting another, the house engrossed and advanced toward passage the Thomson bill providing for a consolidated department of public welfare. The amendment adopted strikes out the provision which would make the department responsible for the administration of all federal funds in the state.

Pass Four Bills
Four bills were passed. They authorized counties and towns to plat unrecorded subdivisions for assessment purposes, provide for a $1 tax on American Legion "40 and 8" vehicles, prohibit the use of marijuana for smoking or beverage purposes, and the sale of beer to any persons under 21 years of age accompanied by parents or guardians.

Bill prohibiting truck drivers operating under motor carrier permits from working more than 48 hours a week was killed.

The assembly reconsidered its vote to kill a bill excluding teachers of one-room rural schools from the tenure law, engrossing it and advancing it toward passage, 44 to 42.

It adopted a joint resolution by Alfonsi (P) Pence, memorializing congress to amend the social security act to repeal the maximum contribution of $15 to the states for old age pensioners.

It's The Smart Thing To Do

An article in a recent magazine stated it just wasn't chic to get angry in this modern age. Time was when a man lost his temper he doubled up his fist and let himself go or when a woman was insulted she burst into tears or threw the nearest book. But now—it's rather ultra, ultra to give insults and receive them decorously. Authorities claim bottled up wrath and suppressed tears are very dangerous, because they often appear in the form of a minor illness. However, that is merely an opinion which could be argued from now 'til the end of time without being settled. There's no argument when it comes to the getting powers of Post-Crescent Want Ads. You'll find how effective they are the very first time you use them.

LEAVES POST

Madison—(AP)—Voyta Wrabetz, chairman of the state labor relations board, said today the resignation of Jack K. Kyle (above) as executive secretary was accepted. Kyle will retire, he said, when he has transferred his work to a successor who will be named soon. Kyle, Whitefish, was appointed by Governor Philip LaFollette in April, 1937, shortly after the board was created.

Britain Ready to Send Troops in Event of Warfare

Has Initial Army of 19 Divisions for Service On Continent

London—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax announced today that the navy had been instructed to retaliate against any submarine attacks on British vessels attempting to run the nationalist blockade of republican Spain.

London—(AP)—Announcement of the British program of preparedness for war was interpreted in political quarters today as a new assurance to France and as a precautionary answer to any prospective Italian territorial designs upon French African colonies.

Britain would send quickly an initial force of more than 200,000 troops to the continent in event of conflict under plans which War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha detailed to the house of commons last night.

A shipping schedule already has been outlined for transport of the troops, 19 divisions as compared to 6 sent to France in 1914.

Work With French
Consultations between French and British general staff officers are to be held soon to discuss further the scope of a British expeditionary force in war time.

Hore-Belisha recalled Premier Chamberlain's recent parliamentary declaration of solidarity with the French and added that, while the consultations had not committed Britain, nevertheless:

"Prudent minds should be ready for any eventuality.

"If we are involved in war, our contribution will not be half-hearted nor upon any theory of limited liability."

The announcement was accepted with pleasure by the French, who lost a measure of their defensive alliance by the Munich agreement which partitioned Czechoslovakia and shattered the military effectiveness of that French ally.

Japs Aim to be Self-Sufficient

Gigantic Industrial Expansion Program Is Made Public

Tokyo—(AP)—Hitherto secret details of a gigantic industrial expansion program designed to give Japan complete self-sufficiency in war materials within three years was disclosed today in parliament. The plan embraced Japanese-occupied China and Japanese-protected Manchoukuo as well as Japan proper.

Kazuo Aoki, president of the cabinet planning board, told the lower house budget committee the program already was under way and was scheduled for completion in 1941. Hence, he said, some phases might be disclosed.

Raw materials derived from newly occupied areas of China play a major role in the production scheme. The majority of industries and articles coming under the plan relate directly to war materials.

The plan envisaged the following percentage increases over present output: ordinary steel, 60 per cent; special steel, 100; steel ingots, 60; pig iron, 100; iron ore, 150; coal, 30; magnesium, 1,000; copper, 50; lead, 90; zinc, 70; tin, 100; natural gasoline, 30; synthetic gasoline, 2,000.

Aoki told the diet actual details of how these increases would be effected could not be disclosed at present.

Senate Debate Delays Action On 2 Measures

Oratory Over WDA and Research Bureau Forces Recess

HEATED ARGUMENT

Bolens Charges State Getting 'Short End' of U. S. Grants

Madison—(AP)—Two controversial bills repealing the Wisconsin Development Authority and creating a state departmental research bureau stirred up sufficient senatorial oratory today to force a recess until 7:30 tonight.

The senate defeated a motion for non-concurrence in the Budlong bill, abolishing the 1937-created WRA, 21-11 after Bolens (D), Port Washington, and Kresky (P), Green Bay, debated its merits as a promoter of rural electrification.

Return of the entire CIO membership to the AFL, settle overlapping jurisdictional claims "over a period of time" by a vote "of the rank and file themselves under the national labor relations act," and decided leadership at the next AFL convention "by bowing to the voice of the delegates."

Bolens, quoting Dec. 31, 1938, figures, said Wisconsin was getting "the short end of the horn" in federal grants. Kresky, using July 1, 1938 totals, estimated Wisconsin was second highest state.

Bolens described the WDA as a "monstrosity" and "super-holding company devoted to a policy of militant partisanship." Wisconsin is the only state with such an organization, he said.

Kresky contended repeal would be untimely because many farmer cooperatives need the support of an agency experienced in rural electrification.

Research Proposal
The senate engaged in acrimonious debate over an administration bill to appropriate $15,000 for a research bureau director and staff to investigate state departments with a view of obtaining economy.

McDermid (D), Ladysmith, said the bill would wipe out the governor's advisory council, composed of senators, assemblymen, and private citizens.

"If ever an executive needed a council of advisers, composed of a few aged senators and a few citizens, the governor needs it today," McDermid declared, discussing Governor Heil's speech before a group of legislators last night.

The governor likened himself to the old man of the family and the legislature as his youngsters," McDermid said. "The governor openly spanked us when the legislature is doing its duty."

"I think the old man is on a rampage, and a few of his youngsters like the governor pro tem (75-year-old Senator Bolens) should go down to the governor and admonish him," McDermid said.

Defends Proposal
White (R) River Falls, defended the proposed bureau as necessary "to clean out" overloaded departments. He said the bill probably would result in "very large savings and put some loafers around here out."

The senate earlier engrossed a bill by Gettelman (R) Milwaukee, granting county boards in counties over 500,000 population the power to license limited of motor vehicles on certain highways.

It refused a motion by Bolens to withdraw his bill appropriating $10,000 to the tax commission to complete work begun by the department of commerce and then engrossed the measure.

Deputies Catch Five Young Tavern Robbers

Chicago—(AP)—Five youthful gunmen who committed eight robberies before midnight and led police on a chase through three counties were captured early today with the aid of a radio blockade.

Thirty squads of Cook and Lake county highway and state police and the police radio broadcast, arrested the five in Fox River Grove by Deputy Sheriff Robert Webb and Edward Zersen of Lake county one hour after they robbed the Black Forest tavern in the northern part of Cook county.

The captives gave their names as George, 26, James, 20, and Frank Lamczak, 19, brothers, of Barrington; Eddie Valentine, 17, and Edward Thomas, 17, both of Chicago. They told Morton Grove police they had robbed 15 taverns in the last two nights.

Confesses Starting Blaze in Paper Plant

Milwaukee—(AP)—A warrant charging Anthony Czerniejewski, 29, with arson was issued today as the result of a $15,000 fire at the plant of the Rexford Paper company Tuesday night. William Greenwald, deputy state fire marshal, said Czerniejewski confessed starting the blaze because he was discharged by the paper firm last December.

Secret Map and Cryptic Letters Lead U. S. Officers to $17,880 in Counterfeit Bills Buried on Golf Course; Two Men Indicted

Chicago—(AP)—A new chapter, involving cryptic letters, a secret map, and $17,880 in counterfeit bills, was added today to the story of the United States Secret Service's hunt for a gang which manufactured an estimated $1,000,000 in bogus money.

The latest developments were unfolded in federal court after a grand jury returned indictments against Frankie Parker, the "airplane bootlegger," and prohibition days, and August Englehardt, convicted counterfeit.

Parker, only recently acquitted of counterfeiting charges in an Illinois state court, was arrested immediately after the indictment was returned yesterday. Englehardt is in the Terminal Island prison near Los Angeles, Calif., serving an 18 months term for counterfeiting.

The $17,880 cache was found in fruit jars buried near the sixteenth green of Tam O'Shanter golf course, Captain Thomas J. Callaghan of the United States Secret Service said it was located by deciphering letters written by Parker to Englehardt.

A public stenographer, Miss Adeline Springer, typed Parker's letters. From her notes the government operatives learned Parker had written "it's time to move those trees." Later Parker reported "sorry the water got in the jars and ruined the preserves."

Subsequently an informer gave the investigators a curious map, which Callaghan said had been drawn by Englehardt before his conviction. It consisted of a flag, the figure 13, and a group of trees. It bore the legend: "The fourth tree must be moved six feet away. You can use an 18 inch screwdriver."

SUGGESTS PLAN

Cleveland—(AP)—Alexander F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, suggested today a "workable plan" to reunite the AFL and CIO. He urged that peace negotiators of the two groups, now meeting, consider this basis for settlement between labor's two big houses.

Return of the entire CIO membership to the AFL, settle overlapping jurisdictional claims "over a period of time" by a vote "of the rank and file themselves under the national labor relations act," and decided leadership at the next AFL convention "by bowing to the voice of the delegates."

Brazil Is Given Liberal Credits Under Agreements

Accord Is Expected to Increase Trade Between Two Nations

Washington—(AP)—The United States and Brazil signed far-reaching agreements today for the liberal extension of credit by the United States to Brazil.

The two countries also agreed to the freeing of the Brazilian exchange market for commerce from here, the establishment of a Brazilian national bank, and resumption of payments on Brazil's dollar debts.

Through an exchange of notes between Secretary of State Hull and Brazilian Foreign Minister Aranha, this country's Export-Import bank will extend credits not to exceed $19,200,000 to the Bank of Brazil to enable the Brazilian government to discontinue official control over foreign exchange operations.

President Roosevelt, the state department announced, will recommend that congress place at Brazil's disposal gold up to $50,000,000 to serve as assets for the central reserve bank which Brazil will create.

To Develop Products
The amount drawn upon will be repaid from Brazil's future production of gold.

Brazil has agreed to develop complementary, non-competitive products for which the state department declared "a substantial market is believed to exist in the United States."

American technical experts will be sent to Brazil if necessary.

Dr. Aranha announced Brazil intends to resume payments on its dollar debts beginning July 1 on account of interest and amortization.

A transitional arrangement to this effect was reached between Aranha and the foreign bond holders protective council, New York city, and will be announced after Aranha's return to Rio, the state department said.

Secretary Morgenthau shortly before the signing that the treasury would continue in effect a 1937 agreement to make gold and dollar exchange available to Brazil.

Franco Set to Attack; Miaja Fights Revolt

Republican Planes Warning on Communist Forces

EXITS ARE GUARDED

Nationalists Plan to Attack Coast and to Move on Madrid

Madrid—(AP)—Republican warplanes bombed groups of rebellious communists on the outskirts of Madrid today in a drastic attempt to suppress their uprising against the new defense council.

All exits from Madrid were guarded by General Jose Miaja's republican forces.

With a powerful nationalist army arrayed for an assault just outside the republican capital, Miaja called his regular forces from Madrid's trenches to crush communist nests persisting in resistance to the defense council within the city.

The republican government had warned it would use warplanes again to bomb communist rebels in Madrid and its environs into submission.

An indication of the scope of the "war within a war" inside beleaguered Madrid was seen in the announcement that 1,000 carabineros had surrendered after the city.

Mobile army units were summoned to aid the Miaja council, which was in continuous session at its headquarters.

Two infantry companies which had supported the communist uprising were reported to have surrendered to advancing Miaja troops at Barajas, east of Madrid.

MotORIZED army units loyal to Miaja, which were called to aid his government, were reported to have reached Canillejas, on the eastern edge of Madrid, this afternoon.

REPORT NEW REVOLT

Hendaye, France—(AP)—Official French reports from Madrid today described a "new communist revolution" against republican General Jose Miaja's defense council.

Rebellious communist party detachments, these reports said, were attempting to march on Valencia and seize that port, one of the main strongholds still in republican territory.

Communications between Madrid and Valencia were said to have been cut by roving bands of communists moving toward the seaboard.

Inside Valencia, it was reported, defense council commanders were turning to page 9 col. 1

Martin Summons His Executive Board to Consider Problems

Detroit—(AP)—Homer Martin called his 14-man executive board into session today to consider problems arising from the break between his faction of the United Automobile Workers and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

In a conference that concluded his five-day convention late yesterday, Martin declared that employers would not be "victimized by strikes" during the factional conflict between anti-CIO and CIO-supported groups of automobile workers.

"There will be no strikes," he said. "We will find some amicable and workable method of settling the dispute."

He indicated that employe elections might be sought in plants where both factions have strong representation.

Martin said, however, that his followers would be instructed to remain at work in the event the CIO-supported faction should call a strike to enforce exclusive bargaining privileges.

Washington—(AP)—Senator Hart (D-Miss.) said today that President Roosevelt is "in thorough sympathy with efforts to reduce government spending if it can be done."

Economy Demands Softer Attacks on Organization Bill

Republicans Deny Governor Criticized Legislature for Delay in Adopting Program

Madison—(AP)—A speech by Governor Julius P. Heil last night, interpreted by some as a criticism of the state legislature, drew prompt reaction today from Republican sources which said the governor had been misrepresented.

The chief executive spoke in emphatic language at a legislative banquet given by the Madison and Wisconsin Foundation when he answered critics who charge that he has no program and defended his trips outside the state to "sell Wisconsin."

Among the 600 persons who attended the banquet were many legislators.

"I know what I want," he said. "I know what is good for the people. I have a program. And you know very well what it is. All I am waiting for is to have you adopt it and I will carry it out."

Republican leaders said the governor's remarks had been "misconstrued when he said: 'If I were making my own laws, I'd have them all made by this time.' They said he referred to his predecessor, former Governor Philip LaFollette and not to any action of the present legislature.

Peterson Blames Press
Reuben W. Peterson, Berlin, Republican floor leader in the assembly, spoke on personal privilege today to criticize published accounts of the governor's speech.

"Newspapers have a habit of printing news they want to print," he said. "I venture to say that not one of 600 persons who were there would say that the governor slapped at the legislature. Newspapers just were not smart enough to get the right meaning."

Defending the governor's appointment of colonels, which he said cost the state nothing, and his trips to advertise the state, Peterson asserted:

"There never has been a governor who has given the state more time than Governor Heil has, and he has given around 18 hours a day."

The chief executive's comments upon his program apparently were inspired by frequent charges of "Big Business" Is Accused of Fixing U. S. Milk Prices

Former AAA Official Charges Monopoly Over Nation's Industry

Washington—(AP)—Dr. Frederick C. Howe, former congressional counsel of the agricultural adjustment administration, told the federal monopoly committee today that "big business" has established a price fixing monopoly over the nation's milk industry.

Howe testified as a federal trade commission witness when the committee began a study of the food industry.

"Powerful milk companies and their allies," Howe said, "stand astride of our milk farmers, of 26,000,000 cows and the many billion dollars of farm investment on one end of the country to the other."

"It is they who determine what 70,000,000 people shall pay for their milk as well as what 3,000,000 farmers who produce it shall receive for their labor."

"Control Only Agency"
The milk distributors control the only agency through which milk must go from the farm to the consumer," he said. "They own and control a health agency or pasteurization plant designed to purify milk, which they now use with their distributing systems to control the entire industry."

"They want to permit only their own milk to reach the city. They would permit these orders to stand unless both chambers voted to nullify them within 60 days."

The extent to which congress should retain this control became the only issue in the closing hours of the house fight yesterday. Since the bill had been stripped of most controversial features which caused the house to shelve a reorganization measure last year, there was little argument over other provisions.

The bill struck a snag, however, when Congressman Summers (D-Texas) proposed an amendment giving either the house or senate the power to vacate a presidential order.

Republicans, tightly bunched on their side of the aisle, voted almost to a man for the Summers amendment. Licking up thirty odd Democratic votes, they flabbergasted the administration leadership with a 153 to 133 standing vote in favor of the more stringent provision.

Summers' Plan Lost
When a teller vote gave 176 to 156 approval to Summers' amendment, Democratic leaders went into a huddle and finally decided on an immediate final test in a roll call vote.

Democrats, streaming into the noisy chamber, turned the tide, and the proposal was rejected 209 to 193.

Rebel yells, piercing whistles and loud applause from the Democratic side greeted Speaker Bankhead's announcement of the result, while the Republicans silently accepted defeat. Democrats defeated a Republican attempt to shelve the measure.

On the final roll call, only five Democrats voted against the bill and eight Republicans voted for it. Joining 234 Democrats in supporting it were the two Wisconsin Progressives, the sole Farmer-Laborists, and the sole American labor party member.

Wisconsin Vote
Representatives Merlin Hull and R. J. Gehrmann, Progressives, were the only Wisconsin house members who voted last night in favor of the bill empowering President Roosevelt to reorganize the executive branch of the government.

Frank B. Keefe, Wisconsin Republican, was paired against the measure, which passed the house, 246 to 153, and went to the senate.

The remaining Wisconsin house members, all Republicans, who voted against the bill were: Representatives Bolles, Griswold, Hawks, Johns, Murray, Schafer and Thill.

13 Members of CIO Union Start Jail Sentences

Serve Terms for Ignoring Injunction to Abandon Sitdown Strike

Waukegan, Ill. — (AP) — Thirteen members of a CIO union who ignored an injunction which ordered them to abandon a sit-down strike in the Pansteel Metallurgical corporation plant in February, 1937, trudged into the Lake county jail today to serve their sentences.

Led by Meyer Adelman of Milwaukee, district organizer of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, a CIO affiliate, the 13 presented themselves to Sheriff Thomas E. Kennedy to start jail sentences ranging from 120 to 140 days. Eight others had been expected to surrender, but did not appear at the time.

Eleven of the 13 were strikers. The other two were organizers for the union. Originally 37 strikers and the two organizers were convicted of contempt of court for defying the injunction and sentenced to jail. Today's group included all but one of the leaders in the sit-down, and the absent one telegraphed he would surrender shortly.

Adelman drew the heaviest sentence, 240 days in jail and a fine of $1,000. Other members of the surrendered group fared as follows: Oakley Mills, Waukegan organizer for the S.W.O.C., 180 days and a $500 fine; Charles Warner, 180 days and $300; Carl Swanson, 180 days and $300. Warner and Swanson were charged with being captains in charge of the plant during the sit-down strike.

The following men were sentenced to 120 days in jail and fined $150 each: Roy Brown, Lester Cump, Harold Dreyer, John Knodt, William Katz, Frank Katz, Joseph Richweis, Fred Yeager and Frank Zelenik.

Regular Business Expense Eligible As Tax Deduction

Must be Ordinary and Necessary Costs, Mayrand Reports

Business expenses which form a large item in the return of many taxpayers are deductible if they are for an expenditure in connection with the management and operation of the taxpayer's business or business properties and if they are all ordinary and a necessary expense, according to R. G. Mayrand, deputy collector of internal revenue.

Ordinary and necessary expenses are only those which are usual and essential in the conduct of similar taxpayers and "do not include extraordinary and nonessential expenses." In insisting on these qualifications, the bureau of internal revenue is upheld by the board of tax appeals and the courts.

Typical business expenses of a mercantile establishment are amounts paid for advertising, hire of clerks and other employees, rent, light, heat, water, stationery, stamps, telephone, property insurance and delivery expenses.

The expenses of a manufacturing business include labor, supplies, repairs, light and heat, power, selling cost, administration and other similar charges.

The farmer may deduct all necessary expenses incurred in the production, harvesting and marketing of crops, including labor, cost of seed and fertilizer used, cost of minor repairs to farm buildings other than his dwelling and small tools used up in the course of a year or two.

A taxpayer may conduct more than one business and claim the business deductions of each.

Arrangements for the dinner which preceded the business meeting and address were made by Stewart Neuville, Appleton. Ted Perry, Menasha, was program chairman.

300 "Half Breed" Indians in Suit To Get Annuities

Want to Collect About a Million Dollars From Uncle Sam

Shawano — About 300 so-called "half-breed" Menominee Indians will begin suit against the secretary of the interior, Harold J. Ickes to compel him to pay over varying amounts totaling well over a million dollars in back annuities. Joseph R. McCarthy, Shawano attorney, who represents the claimants, said he will file the suit soon in federal court in the District of Columbia.

The question of tribal enrollment, always a troublesome one to the Menominee tribe, is involved in the suit. Because the so-called half-breeds were never entered on the Menominee tribal rolls, they have never received any of the annuities, which are per capita payments to the tribe members by the secretary of the interior as trustee of the Menominee funds.

The suit is based mainly on a ruling for a federal court of appeals in 1925 that the late Alexander Besaw, a Civil War veteran, who attempted all his life to prove his tribal status be paid the sum of $1,012.51 in back annuities. The genealogy of Besaw compares with the family of many of most of the so-called half-breeds, McCarthy declares. Besaw, in his suit, was represented by Dennison Wheeler, Eben R. Minahan, and Moses E. Clapp of Green Bay.

Shortly after the Besaw decision, Congress passed a new enrollment act which ruled out the other claimants before they could file suit. The claimants now maintain that the act was unconstitutional since it deprived them of rights and privileges which should be legally accorded them.

The court of appeals ruling in the Besaw case established the precedent that if a Menominee could trace his maternal ancestry back to a full-blooded Indian, he was entitled to his full share in the annuities.

About 500 half-breed Indians have such a claim, McCarthy said, and the persons involved are largely scattered throughout Northeastern Wisconsin and even on the Menominee Indian Reservation itself. The 300 which he represents, however, banded themselves together and are starting suit collectively.

The Indians are not suing for tribal privileges, only for annuity participation.

Boys Camp to be Held at Academy

Three Appleton Organizations Sponsor Youths in Legion Encampment

Three organizations of Appleton have contributed $150 to send high school boys to the Badger Boys State, a summer camp sponsored by the Alcezo Cudworth post of the American Legion. These groups are the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Fraernal Order of Eagles and the Knights of Pythias. Appleton's quota is 10 boys, the fee per boy is $15.

The Badger Boys State will be in session from June 17 to 24 at St. John's Military Academy, Delaford, Wis. When they reach the campus, the boys will be divided into cities and counties; and the entire assemblage of 600 representatives will become a mythical 49th state which will function for the 8-day period according to the procedure of the state of Wisconsin. The purpose of the Legion is to teach the fundamental principles of American government through actual practice.

In Boys State the boys have their own city and state governments and elect their own officials from the governor down. They have their own city councils where they present and argue their own bills, their own police departments by means of which they enforce their own ordinances. Any boy is eligible who has demonstrated qualities of leadership. Selection is made by the local Legion post. H. H. Hebble, principal of Appleton High school, is a member of the board of directors for Boys State.

LABOR UNION RIVALS SHAKE HANDS AT PEACE MEETING

John L. Lewis, head of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, offered his hand in greeting to Daniel J. Tobin (left), head of the Teamsters union and an advocate of industrial peace, as Tobin changed his mind and joined the American Federation of Labor committee which began negotiations with a similar group representing the C.I.O. for peace between the two organizations.

Friends Push Campaign for Garner but Vice President Remains Silent on Subject

Washington — (AP) — The friends of Vice President Garner who lighted the fuse to a presidential boom for him in Texas last December said today it is sizzling nicely—but they have had no word from Garner on the subject.

They asserted several states were making tentative plans to send delegations for Garner to the 1940 Democratic convention. A formal drive, however, will not be started until this session of congress ends. Nevertheless, the friends who promoted the December rally at Detroit, Texas, near the mud-chinked log cabin in which the vice president was born, are maintaining the nucleus of an organization. They are establishing and building up contacts for the future.

The vice president, however, has come no nearer to an expression of his own views on the subject, these friends said, that he did to Roy Miller of Corpus Christi before the Detroit rally.

Friend's Visit Futile Miller, long a close friend of Garner, went to Uvalde to visit him after plans for the rally had been announced. He took along a file of clippings telling of the plans, and pictures of the old cabin and of the old Coon Soup Hollow baseball team on which Garner had played as a youngster.

The vice president was sitting on a glass-enclosed porch when Miller arrived. "Mr. Garner, I've got something I want to show you," he said, handing over the file.

Garner's eyes glimpsed the picture of the old home place. "Ettie," he called to Mrs. Garner. "See, Ettie, it's the old place. It looks pretty much like it used to."

"But Mr. Garner," said Miller, "how about this other file? I don't know what you will think about it." By this time, Garner had found the picture of the baseball team. "That's it, Ettie," he said. "The old team. I was the best danged shortstop in east Texas."

He handed the bundle back to Miller. "But Mr. Garner," Miller tried again. "... Best shortstop in east Texas." That was as far as Miller got toward obtaining the vice president's approval for the homecoming rally.

progressive leaders in the senate that the administration has no program. Referring to reports that he aspires to run for the United States senate in 1940, Heil declared: "I don't want to be a damn thing but a good governor for the state of Wisconsin."

He said a medalion distributed among the banquet guests commemorated 90 years of statehood, and added: "During 90 years they have not solved the economic problems of Wisconsin and here they expect me to do it in two months."

Always Gets Orders "To let you in on a secret," Heil said, "I have been a bad governor. I have been bumbling. But printer's ink is cheap and papers need business. If I had sat with my feet on the desk, they would have said: 'Why doesn't he go out and sell the state?'"

"I never go out without getting orders," he asserted, referring to a university contract for boiler tubes for a Milwaukee concern and the $8,000,000 expansion program of the International Harvester company at Milwaukee.

The governor criticized legislators who, he said, had come to him with "political expediencies." "I'm not interested in political expediencies," he said. "I'm interested in relieving the people of our state of the difficult burdens they are facing today."

Smith Bill Would Change Method of Handling Cotton

Under His Plan, Producers Would Get Up to 5 Cents a Pound

Washington — (AP) — The senate agriculture committee approved today proposals of Chairman Smith (D-S. C.) for dealing with the cotton surplus problem and sent Smith's bill on for consideration by the senate.

Witnesses have estimated that Smith's proposals could require a federal outlay for cotton of more than $300,000,000, in addition to present benefits. Smith contended additional costs would not be much above $100,000,000.

The Smith bill aims at modifying the present cotton program under the farm act, by paying growers up to 5 cents a pound in price adjustment payments to market their cotton this season, instead of placing it under government loan.

The government now has more than 11,000,000 bales of cotton under loan, with some $500,000,000 invested against increasing these stocks while cotton exports are far below normal.

AAA Estimates The agricultural adjustment administration estimated today its crop programs had added $2,080,229 to the income of producers of cotton, wheat, tobacco, corn and livestock from 1933 through 1937.

It divided the benefits as follows: cotton $876,000,000; tobacco $327,100,000; wheat $283,129,000; corn and livestock $784,000,000.

The AAA also claimed indirect benefits, such as a reduction in farm operating expenses resulting from curtailed production, conservation of soil resources, and aid in efforts to improve general economic conditions.

In an annual report to Secretary Wallace, the AAA declared its crop control programs "have been under ceaseless attack by powerful and organized forces of opposition."

The report said 3,733,904 farmers on 3,020,037 farms had cooperated in the 1937 control programs. The area affected was 282,629,000 acres, or nearly 65 per cent of the nation's total farmland.

Subsidies paid cooperating farmers were listed as $367,000,000, an average of $81.93 per farmer.

Freight Car Loadings Above Level of 1938
Freight carloadings, often considered a barometer of business conditions, showed encouraging results last month in Appleton as increases of 5 to 20 per cent were reported by the three railroads operating in the city.

One reported a 20 per cent increase for February over the same month last year and the others showed 5 to 10 per cent increases.

AAA Figures on Farm Program in Wisconsin Cited

State Received $18,400,000 During Period Of 18 Months

Washington — (AP) — The federal government spent $18,417,813 on its farm program in Wisconsin in the 18 months which began January 1, 1937. The agricultural adjustment administration reported to Secretary Wallace today the program cost $688,243,817 in that period.

In addition, Administrator H. R. Tolley reported, the federal surplus commodities corporation spent $42,867,715 from July 1, 1936 to May 6, 1938, of which $1,902,286 was spent in Wisconsin.

In the 18 months covered by the report on AAA expenditures, the administration paid Wisconsin farmers $9,710,165 for compliance with the 1936 program and $6,958,901 for the 1937 program. Tolley estimated the state's farmers earned $8,075,000 for 1937, leaving approximately $1,475,000 still to be paid when the report was prepared.

148,000 Farmers Apply He reported that when the 1937 program was started, with its shift of emphasis from crop reduction by contract to payment for adoption of soil conserving and soil building practices, 148,000 Wisconsin farmers filed applications to participate.

They farmed 9,985,609 acres of cropland, he said, or 86.2 per cent of the state's 11,578,447 acres of cropland. He said there were 1,965 Wisconsin sugar beet growers participating in the 1937-38 program, and estimated their benefit payments would total $148,000.

From July 1, 1936, through June 30, 1937, Tolley reported the federal surplus commodities corporation spent $847,156 in Wisconsin; $515,518 for dry skim milk, $327,734 for evaporated milk, $1,582 for cattle, $2,035 for frozen fish and $286 for transportation.

Wisconsin was eighth in volume of FSC expenditures for the period July 1, 1937 through May 6, 1938, when the corporation spent $1,055,130 in the state. Tolley reported: $45,627 for eggs, $119,195 for dry skim milk, $780,237 for canned peas, $3,320 for potatoes, and $106,750 for transportation.

Under the Jones-Connally cattle act, he reported, the administration between July 1934 and July 1, 1938, tested 205,803 Wisconsin herds with 3,825,753 cattle, finding $9,077 cattle with bovine tuberculosis. Indemnities for destroyed cattle amounted to $218,089, and operation of the program cost $152,874.

In the tests for Bang's disease, Tolley reported, 200,777 cattle were found infected out of 3,241,775 tested in Wisconsin in the same period. Their destruction cost $5,080,410 in indemnities and operation of the program cost $834,712.

Firm Employing 600 To Stay in Madison

Madison — (AP) — Assurance that the Ray-O-Vac company, which employs about 600 persons, would remain in Madison was given today in a company statement declaring that charges filed against it with the national labor relations board have been withdrawn by an A. F. of L. union.

Three hundred men returned to work last week, the company said, as a result of labor board mediation. A new contract involved a wage adjustment.

The company announced in December that it would move to an Ohio plant.

3 Autoists Fined for Breaking Parking Law

Three persons were fined $1 and costs each when they pleaded guilty of violating the city ordinance parking ordinance in municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan this morning. They are Arthur Moon, 613 W. College avenue; Ann Russell, 190 River drive; and Carl Moderson, 724 E. Wisconsin avenue.

Motorist Who Enjoys Splashing Pedestrians Well Known Menace

Today's is the first in the series of the letters on pet traffic peevishness published by the Post-Crescent as an outlet for the justifiable annoyance, indignation, or even, on at fury that rise in careful drivers over the discourtesy, ignorance, and just plain foolishness in some drivers.

Authors of the letters appearing in the newspaper will each receive $1 and have the satisfaction of a public reprisal against erratic and dangerous driving. Their names will not be made public.

The Post-Crescent is awaiting more letters from readers who have pet traffic peevishness they would like to air. Remember, a letter will be more forceful and receive more consideration if it deals with only one offense of driving ethics. The limit is 400 words.

"Gentlemen: My pet traffic peevishness is directed at the motorist, who, especially at this time of year when streets and highways are filled with water, takes a fiendish delight in splashing all who are within range of the churning wheels of his automobile."

"Babies in their buggies, silk-stockinged ladies, gray-tousered men and tottering old folks are all likely targets. When a 'direct hit' is registered, a dirty laugh from the screwball driver sometimes adds to the misery of the victim."

"Slow driving through a water-puddle, or, whenever possible, a short detour around it, solves the problem completely. And, incidentally, that moment of blind driving, while the windshield is being deluged with an opaque curtain of water, is eliminated and a chance for an accident averted."

"Think safety when driving and your actions will speak for themselves."

Firm to Spend $3,500 In Remodeling of Home

A permit to remodel a residence at 614 N. Morrison street was given to the Attractive Homes company, 913 W. Winnebago street, by the city building inspector this morning. Cost of the work is estimated at $3,500.

E. M. Schreiter, 1342 W. Lawrence street, received a permit to construct a store building of concrete blocks at 607 W. College avenue. Cost of the building is estimated at $400.

Bicycle Safety Film

Mrs. Louis Pelczynski, 926 W. Lawrence street, and Mrs. Ida Dolven, 739 W. Spencer street, attended the funeral of the latter's sister, Mrs. Andrew O'Connell, in Milwaukee Wednesday.

Bank Affiliates Ended System of Extended Credit

Institutions Developed Many Abuses, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—In the studies and discussions of intermediate credit for business going on now among members of congress and the executive departments, looking toward some form of aid for small businesses, the comment most often heard in opposition is that, under existing regulations, banks now can make long-term loans and that hence the need has been met and there is no great demand.

It is true that, after conferences last year between Federal Reserve board officials and representatives of the treasury department and the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, bank examiners were instructed to approve loans up to 10 years. But it is also true that banks are loath to make commitments for a 10-year period merely on the strength of the discretionary power vested in a bank regulation, which through investment banking channels, the borrower in the latter case is under supervision of a trustee to carry out certain requirements of a trust agreement, but he does not face the hazard of a banker's judgment every six or nine months as to whether the skies look cloudy or clear in the business world.

Few 10-Year Loans
Intermediate credit or long-term capital has been available to businesses large enough to be able to float a loan of $1,000,000 or over through investment banking channels, but there is no comparable machinery available to the business man if he happens to need $500,000 or smaller sums. Here and there, some commercial banks are making 10-year loans, but they are not numerous in quantity, and there is a natural reluctance to go into this type of loan where the bank takes the whole issue of a company's notes.

What is being considered here now in congress is legislation which will permit private finance corporations as well as banks to buy the debentures of a borrowing company in whole or in part, these finance corporations to be owned in large part by banks and the debentures made marketable by a system of insurance such as prevails now with respect to the mortgage loans made by the Federal Housing administration.

Commercial banks would be ready and eager to buy such debentures, because they would have back of them the same sort of government support which has made mortgage debentures so popular. Indeed, the other day a large savings bank in New York reduced its long-term interest rate of mortgage loans below that which had prevailed before, because it was apparent that these new forms of credit were not as hazardous as had been believed.

Buy Debentures
In the realm of business loans, however, a rate of 6 per cent probably will be used, out of a premium for insurance will have to be paid. The plans being discussed, therefore, relate to the problem of making it attractive for commercial banks to use their idle funds to buy debentures of American businesses.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

By Lichty

"We've been watching your work on the left rear hub cap, Putnam—we think you're ripe for promotion to the right front spring-shackle bolt!"

which debentures would have as a feature of safety the same device which is attached now to federal housing mortgages.

The argument will be made, that this will cause the government losses, but in answer to this is the experience with the housing loans, which are working out very well with the use of the funds of private banks rather than direct government credit.

Bank Affiliates
The truth is that congress, in a passion of reform indignation, wiped out of existence the system of intermediate credit which existed between 1920 and 1932 in what were known as "bank affiliates." These institutions developed many abuses, but, in the desire to get rid of the abuses, no long-term credit machinery was left with which to perform some of the very useful functions carried on by these banking corporations. Certainly, no system which permits bad short-term loans to be loaded on to banking corporations owned by the banks should be allowed and other abuses which were noted in the post-war era should not be tolerated, but this can be prevented and yet American business, especially in small cities and towns, given a chance to get the capital needed to build up America's national income to the $80,000,000,000 mark attained in 1929.

For, with the disappearance of intermediate credit for small companies, the big companies, with their surpluses and large capital reserves, have been able to grow stronger and have obtained an increasing share of the volume of business that formerly went to small competitors. The temporary national economic committee, under the chairmanship of Senator O'Mahoney, is deeply interested in what can be done to give smaller units in an industry a chance to compete against those companies well-heeled with capital. Studies and surveys are being made with a view to laying the facts before the country as to the handicaps of the small businesses in competing with large aggregations of capital.

Committees Will Chart Seal Sale For The Disabled

County Unit Collected
$2,807, Spent $2,325
Over Four Years

Plans for the Easter Seal sale to replenish the fund of the Outagamie county unit of the Wisconsin Association for the Disabled will be discussed at a meeting at 6:30 tonight at the Appleton Y. M. C. A.

The seal sale is scheduled to begin on March 15 and will continue through Easter. The quota probably will be $625 in the county, the same amount as in other years.

The association was organized and had its first drive in 1933 and since that time has had total seal sale receipts of $2,807. Disbursements to date total $2,325 leaving a balance of $481.42 in the fund.

The money has been carefully handled and was spent only to help worthy disabled persons and crippled children. Office expenses in the four years have been $18.60 and the cost of the four seal sales amounted to $88.28.

Part of the money collected, $1,307 was paid into the state organization for directed work for the disabled. A total of $62 was spent in board for children at Waukegan, the association's camp for crippled children. Three wheel chairs were purchased at a cost of $123.66 and two pairs of glasses for children cost $28.50.

Artificial limbs and repairs on limbs totaled $247.50; clinic cost was $1 and $5 was spent for physiotherapy treatments for a crippled boy. Orthopedic appliances cost the organization $1 and $11.50 was spent in hospitalization. Hearing devices and repairs on hearing devices for deaf persons cost $386.30 over the four years.

Its People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood — Settlin' Around (Twentieth Century-Fox): Someday when Darryl Zanuck, head-man of this lot, is just fresh out of important conferences and polo games, he should take time out and get acquainted with Nancy Kelly. Not the poised young lady whom I saw today before the cameras on the "Stanley and Livingstone" set playing a very adult love scene in the world-weary wife whom you saw in "Jesse James". He should learn to know the REAL Nancy Kelly—a seventeen-year-old whirlwind who can "jitterbug" with the best, who's "just crazy" about sports events, who's as mischievous as a kitten and who, for all her intuitive understanding of grown-up emotion, isn't at all interested in love.

I wish he'd get acquainted with that Nancy—and give her a real chance to be her age and herself on the screen. You'd love her. I can't understand Hollywood's refusal to make pictures dealing with those adolescent years. I can't understand why producers insist that every girl over sixteen must be concerned with nothing but love, and that her pictures must invariably end in a clinch and a trek to the altar. Youngsters like Nancy, in spite of her acting ability, are handicapped when they play screen roles that they will not play in real life for years. They may simulate the proper emotional reactions, but they can't feel them. And by what conceivable reasoning do the studio czars conclude that the world is not interested in adolescence. It's the most interesting, wholly delightful, stage of life.

CHATTER ABOUT TWENTIETH CENTURY-FOX IDOLS: Put off that visit to Twentieth Century until next week unless you're a cookie addict—Jane Wymann is peddling them for a Girl Scout Club Drive and her sales talk is irresistible. Odd, but only one star of the twenty-six under contract to this studio can boast a last name containing more than six letters... Joan Davis is almost as reluctant to talk about herself as she is eager to talk about her daughter, Beverly Willis. The guy with the candid camera draped around his neck is Tyrone Power—he's a dyed-in-the-wool addict. Don't worry about Jack Haley's financial future—he's saved at least ten per cent of every paycheck since he landed his first theatrical job. The only adequate description of Alice Faye's costume for the early sequences of "Rose of Washington Square" is an hysterical titter...

Cesar Romero, wearing the filthiest, most villainous make-up I've ever seen for his Mexican gun-man role in "Return of the Cisco Kid" doubts that old bromide about "handsome is as handsome does." Yesterday, not being on call until mid-afternoon, he donned his greasest-paint at home. Enroute to the studio, he stopped at a Beverly Hills sandwich counter for lunch—and found the place so crowded that he had to wedge in between two elderly ladies. One of them pulled away with an expression of profound disgust, the other indignantly sailed out in such a hurry that she left her dessert untasted.

Former All-American grid star, "Rosy" Rosenberg, is assistant director on "The Gorilla" set—and the story of his Hollywood debut offers a good insight on this somewhat scruffy business. Rosy, just graduated from U.S.C., was in a nightspot, advising a friend where to place his bets on the roulette table, and advising so successfully that a few producers began to follow his tips, too. The big shot cleaned up—plenty. "What are you doing now?" he asked. "Looking," said Rosy. "Well, said the happy mogul, "try looking in my office tomorrow morning." Mr. Rosenberg now rates among our top-notch assistant directors.

Watched Richard Greene and Nancy Kelly play a touching love scene for "Stanley and Livingstone." They were seated on a big native drum, with Nancy demurely refusing to heed her suitor's plea to "Look at me." Midway through the scene, I saw her face suddenly go blank and—what's more important—the director noticed the lapse, too, in spite of her quick recovery. "Cut! What's wrong?" he asked. Nancy stood up and pointed to the drum with considerable distaste. That's what's wrong," she retorted, pointing to a sign stamped on the edge of the drum head. It read: "Property of Twentieth Century-Fox African Expedition. War drum from Congo village. Drum head made of human skin."

On the same set, Walter Brennan was protesting against being cast as a congenial liar. "I've never lied—and I won't start it on the screen," he argued. "Why, once I was in such a jam that it looked like I either had to lie or be hung for horse stealing. And still I stuck to the truth." "What happened?" demanded Spencer Tracy. "They hung me!" grinned Brennan, happily.

Vote Extension of Tax Paying Time

Affidavits Must be Filed With Little Chute Treasurer Before March 15

Little Chute — At a meeting of the members of the village board Tuesday evening it was decided to permit extension of payment of real estate taxes through filing affidavits with the village treasurer before March 15. The board also met with the officials of the Wisconsin Telephone company in regard to connecting the fire alarm system to the poles owned jointly by the Kaukauna Electric company and the Wisconsin Telephone company. Nothing definite was decided on the question. The next meeting of the board will be held Tuesday evening, March 21.

Henry Verbruggen and Joseph Tease are in the race for the office of trustees opposing Theodore E. Lamers, Arthur Pennings and Martin A. Hietpas in the coming election. Nomination papers must be filed with the clerk before March 20. Other present officers who are up for re-election are: John Vande Nacht, village president; Louis Verhagen, Jr., clerk; John G. Hermesen, treasurer; Joseph Hietpas, assessor; Willard Van Handle, justice of peace.

A son was born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson.

A WORD FOR THE GOVERNOR

Is the impatience that makes itself manifest in public forums and independent editorial columns in relation to Governor Heil's seeming lack of a program justified?

So long as critics do not know what is actually going on in the governor's mind might it not be safer and perhaps more just for all to assume that the problems are so critical and the departments of government so extensive that considerable time must be spent in their analysis with the intelligent purpose of treating them as a whole?

It is not unlikely that when Mr. Heil came to office he most sincerely believed that the state was daily violating every canon of good business principles and that correction could be brought about by someone who understood those principles and had sufficient backbone to enforce them.

But Mr. Heil's postponement of decisive conclusions may just as well be interpreted as the result of his discovery that the problems of state are much more numerous and extensive than he imagined and that an honest and effective policy requires that the governor make a most searching study of all the numerous expeditions upon which the state has pioneered in the last decade before a sound and helpful decision can be made.

It may be that the governor's delay is the wisest course he could pursue under the circumstances and that those who are construing it as evidence of a shambling hit-and-miss policy are quite premature with their judgment.

The Post-Crescent has no inside information in respect to what it has been discussing. But it has the desire and purpose to be entirely fair with every governor.

It suggests the possibility therefore that those who postpone judgment and withhold criticism until we have something definite from the governor may be happier that they did so.

WHAT'S THE USE OF LANGUAGE?

That a man claims to be a liberal and then supports radicalism, is but a pronounced example of how the greatest blessing the human race has, the ability to speak and communicate with one another, is also one of its greatest dangers.

Recently we ran across the program of the Falange Espanola, the Spanish Fascist organization, and compared it to the program printed by the Barcelona government long before it fell. It would take something more than a Philadelphia lawyer to find any difference between them of any substantial importance.

Each said in so many words that the state should "guarantee property legally and legitimately acquired" and that the state should also "prevent the exploitation of the citizen" and always, of course, guarantee "the rights of the worker." But nowhere could we find a precise outline of when property was "legitimately acquired" or what amounted to the "exploitation of the citizen," or who would write in detail the list of "the rights of the worker."

We cite the example because it is well known how diametrically opposite in theory and outlook are the two sides in Spain. Yet each was able to write a program that employed practically the same words as the other and each employed such words partly for the purpose of influencing the reader who was not given to think farther than the mere glowing effect upon him of pretty and melodious words carefully put together.

Noah Webster once wrote that "Language, as well as the faculty of speech, is the immediate gift of God." Certainly it is the mark that distinguishes us from lower animals. Language is an art but all arts are subject to fraud and all miserable deceptions. Painters' great canvases, the work of ancient sculptors, even those who lived before Christ, have been deceivingly set up by moderns in such clever manner to mislead experts who employed every known means to test their genuineness.

Language, without which mankind could know none of the civilization with which we are acquainted, only furnishes additional proof that in every virtue or blessing is the seed of every wrong and harm. But the two do not balance and the odds are heavily in favor of advancement and improvement, but just in proportion as mankind is vigilant, studious and patient.

TRUTHS FROM THE TYRANTS

From Italy, Germany and Japan, almost simultaneously as if by prearrangement, come some sound arguments concerning provoking injustices that exist in this world in respect to the division of colonies. And the word colony is carefully employed to designate lands largely peopled by those bordering on savagery or otherwise unfit to maintain stable or civilized government.

If the world will consider alone the case of Portugal it will observe a vigorous but not progressive people holding vast domains rich with natural though largely undeveloped resources which are likely to remain just that way for centuries, while much more active and pushing races, such as Italians and Germans, are huddled within restricted borders and in their powerful elbowings are likely to create turmoil just for lack of what Portugal has and doesn't need.

Portugal is about two-thirds the size of Wisconsin and has a population of six million. It has colonies in Africa that in area would make 15 Wisconsins but support a population of but 8 million. It has other and wealthy island colonies both in the Atlantic, the Indian and Pacific oceans.

Portugal is very slow either to colonize this extensive territory which it holds or to open it up at all. Our information concerning these colonies is about as limited as General Washington's understanding of California, that is dependent upon the sketchy details brought out by rugged explorers who could have only skimmed the surface yet report appearances that could be transformed by the arts of civilization into peaceful farms and active town sites.

But Portugal doesn't care to have Italians and Germans populate her territories. Since she has not the man-power to populate them herself they simply remain idle.

And all of this has been possible through the generations because Portugal made a treaty long ago with Britain giving her the active support of the greatest maritime power. Britain has always been pleased and satisfied with this treaty because it has given her trade and business advantages through Portugal and her colonies of a highly satisfactory nature. It is this relationship which makes it possible today for Britain to control the world port wine market although that tasty beverage not only originated in but was christened after one of Portugal's principal cities.

If the thesis of many historians to the effect that crowded populations champing for room make war be a true conclusion the next proposition is whether or not gross inequalities in relation to land distribution between races can be corrected by conference and treaty or whether resort must be had to war or a threat of war.

The totalitarians assume, and the democracies deny, that force or its imminent and insolent threat can alone remove these seeming wrongs.

From the pages of history there troop forth an endless number of instances to support the tyrants' claim. Even the pact of Munich would probably have been impossible without a million Germans in arms and prepared to strike. Where, on the other hand, can democracy produce any example where a nation with extensive territory voluntarily transferred some of its possessions to a nation with a teeming population but short of the necessary acres to provide its people with desirable elbow room?

Alas, even today, powerful groups in France and Britain are virtually crying for war against Germany and because they insist upon blinding themselves to the fact that, whether Hitler be a madman or not, the German nation under him possesses some genuine grievances against those who forced the Versailles treaty upon her at the deadly point of a gun.

Justice is still a very elusive creature. We all demand her for ourselves but justly withholding her from others upon the ground that they are mean and undeserving people anyway.

Which one should remark, and not softly, has been a primary cause throughout the ages of the frequent occurrence of war.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

ANNA'S HOUSE

When Anna has her own house.
How lovingly her hands
Will scrub each dusty corner.
And answer the demands
Of cloudy, rain-streaked windows!
Small houses must have care.
And all rooms knowing Anna
Take on a festive air!

The drudgery of housework
Has no place in her day.
Beneath her strong young fingers
The tasks all melt away.
Her spirit, serving others,
Has grown unselfish wings.
Hard work can never silence
The song her good heart sings.

When Anna has her own house,
We will remember her.
And miss her healing presence—
The soft domestic stir
Of her crisp snowy apron.
Her gentleness, her grace,
Her voice with its sweet cadence,
The goodness of her face.

May life shower upon Anna
The sunshine she deserves,
Long years of gentle living
To bless a heart that serves:
May life sit at her table,
In that new house where Anna
Will come, a happy bride!

DALE HARRISON'S
In Old New York

San Francisco—Traveler's Notebook:
Taxi fares always are a shock to a touring New Yorker, for in New York travel by cab is comparatively inexpensive. Out here the meter registers 25 cents the moment you get in, and the clock turns out the increase at a dime a clip whereas in New York the meter starts at 20 cents and adds only a nickel at a time.

Sign on a San Francisco tavern: "Red Eye, 15c. Black Eye, Free." (And they aren't kidding, either).
San Franciscans ride the cable cars (that climb the steep hills) in such numbers that they seem to hang from all sides, like hornets around a nest. The cars are open, and riders grab on wherever they can find an opening. I asked one man how the conductor ever was able to collect all the fares, and he said he wasn't. "But he is able to collect most of them," he added, "and nobody worries too much about it."

The United States government's exhibit at Treasure Island, site of the San Francisco Fair, is the gaudiest splash of color imaginable. It is like those painted canvas signs the sideshows and Snake Charmer, only twenty times larger. They are elephantine murals, and I don't say they aren't pretty. All I say is that I am surprised to see a P. T. Barnum technique cropping out in the staid preserves of our solemn government.

I had to come all the way to San Francisco, famous for its Chinatown, to attend an authentic Chinese luncheon without being served tea. It was at the Chinese Village and it was a luncheon attended by many dignitaries, including Mayor Rossi. A charming Chinese made a welcoming speech during which he touched upon the subject of tea. He said there are some teas so rare that they sell for $100 an ounce. This is tea that grows in high places and which is picked by specially trained monkeys which pluck only the tenderest leaves and bring them down. After this terrific build-up for tea, our Chinese host served a delightful lunch—but not a drop of tea.

The accepted form of giving change for a $5 bill here, no matter how small the purchase, is in half dollars. Seldom are bills given in return.

The city is famed for its eating places, and it is true there are thousands of them, but I doubt if the food or service or appointments are any better than are afforded by any large American city. My brief experience with them found me rhapsodizing chiefly over the generously thick and tender steaks, than which I have eaten none better anywhere. I heard many natives cheering loudly for certain places where Japanese food is served, but it developed that one had to have an introduction to get into the better places, which do not make a business of catering to outsiders; so I didn't bother. I can get along very nicely on American food without the necessity of delving into sukiyaki.

I found both here and in Los Angeles a distinct coolness on the part of the public toward "Wrong Way" Corrigan, the ocean hopper. No one was able to say just why the antipathy existed, but most newspapermen were very positive in the intensity of their criticism. The same thing happened years ago in the case of Colonel Lindbergh, who has never been overly popular with reporters since. Corrigan and his trans-Atlantic "crate" are a concession at the Fair.

Alcatraz, the most famous of all the islands in San Francisco bay, is also the most prominent, yet it is rarely mentioned. The only time I heard anyone speak of it at all was when a guide on one of the bus tours of the city pointed it out. This same guide also made reference to the San Francisco "earthquake and fire," but I suppose by this time someone must have told him to please omit the earthquake.

Incidentally, a famous geologist told me that there is a "fault" in earth running directly under the Golden Gate and San Francisco and down the way a bit inland; but he said earthquakes run in cycles, and that, doubted if there would be another one out this way until sometime during the 1970's. If I'm still around, I'll try to remember to check on it.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, March 12, 1914
The commission council, upon recommendation of Councilman John Goodland, purchased a Studebaker flusher for $1,275, and paved streets of the city were to be flushed the coming summer.

Adolph Cloos, a farmer living on the Horntown road, was taken to the hospital with a badly fractured leg suffered when a tree fell on him.

Mrs. L. J. Marshall, Mrs. L. L. Lawrence and Mrs. D. W. Lawrence entertained about 25 women at a 1 o'clock luncheon and cards.

Dr. W. L. Conkey was elected president of the Fox River Valley Dental society at its meeting in Green Bay.

J. H. Jamison, Greenville, and M. C. Meulemans of Kaukauna graduated from the short course in agriculture at the state university that week.

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, March 7, 1929
Herbert Hoover, recently inaugurated president, had called a special session of congress for April 15 to consider farm relief and tariff. The Wisconsin Railroad commission denied a petition from the Fox River Bus Co. to be permitted to operate its busses on the south side of the river to Kimberly.
The government allotted $155,000 for Fox river improvement but the major portion of it was to be used for a dam at DePere.
Oney Johnston post of the American legion had 560 members and was seeking 80 more to equal the previous year's record.
Mayor A. C. Rule and the common council were involved in an argument over the mayor's expense accounts and over committee service pay drawn by members of the council. Aldermen, it was said, were drawing 50 cents an hour for committee service, but were getting a minimum of five hours pay no matter if the committee met only 15 minutes.

REGGIE GIVES A PARTY

We can think of few remarks that we'd care to print about the social event reported in the following item from the New York Times, and, anyway, comment might be superfluous:
"Sir Reginald Applebottom, a cocker spaniel of lordly mien, yet democratic enough to answer to the name of Reggie, was host at breakfast yesterday to a selected group of canine admirers at the Bide-a-Wee Home for Animals, 410 E. 38th Street.
"It was Reggie's 4th birthday, and his mistress, Patricia Ellis, motion picture star, decided that a cocker spaniel, used to the luxuries of a Park avenue household, should share some of his allowance in gifts to less fortunate cousins."
On the same day a chimpanzee ran wild in a pet shop, tied up Fifth avenue traffic for half an hour, and finally was killed by policemen. You guess what drove the poor chimp crazy—New York World-Telegram.

Washington—The Constitution says the right of petition shall not be denied, and if ever there was a right more freely exercised it has escaped us.

Every day the first few pages of the Congressional Record are packed with petitions from persons and groups and memorials from state legislatures asking congressional action, or inaction, on an amazing host of subjects.

Kansas legislators feel the Government is chiseling on the distribution of revenue from the 10 per cent tax on sporting goods sales. Only $1,000,000 is scheduled for distribution to the states this year for wild life restoration, says the memorial, while "usually reliable sources" say the tax is bringing $3,500,000. Kansas says its share of one million is only $17,000, while if the "usually reliable sources" are right, it should be getting $57,000.

The governor and legislature of Arizona ask Congress to continue the silver purchasing program, warning that many of her own mines and others in the silver producing states will fold up without such aid.

Stop Taxes—Pay Pensions!
Delaware comes in with a request that the Government stop taxing gasoline and other motor fuels, asserting it has already gobbled up $1,500,000,000 since it invaded the gasoline tax field. Delaware thinks the states should have that tax to themselves.

The one-house Nebraska legislature asks enactment on one of the Townsend-style old age pension bills.

Six hundred members of the construction industry meeting in Los Angeles petitioned Congress to continue the silver purchasing program, warning that many of her own mines and others in the silver producing states will fold up without such aid.

Gary, Indiana, Lodge No. 1117 of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee petitions against amendment of the National Labor Relations Act.

From Hughes county, Oklahoma, comes a petition of 117 oil field workers protesting against operation of the wage-hour bill as applied to them.

Oakland, California, Townsendsites petition for passage of the Town and Country Planning Act.

While the Daughters of the American Revolution of Providence, R. I., urge plenty of national defense.

"Don't Move That Ship!"
The Rhode Island legislature submits a resolution objecting to removal of the frigate Constellation from its home port of Newport (where the Naval War College is).

Kansas, petition against shipping any more war supplies to Japan for use against China. On the other hand "sundry citizens" of Massachusetts petition for lifting the embargo so arms and munitions could be sent to Spain.

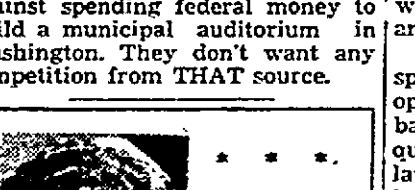

Faculty members and students of Smith College, Northampton, Massachusetts, petition against the Spanish embargo should be lifted. Sixty-six citizens of Holyrood, Kansas, ask Congress for a processing tax on wheat or "cost of production-plus-profit" legislation to give the farmers a break.

The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee is considering legislation to level out freight rates to give the South a lift but the West Virginia legislature objects. West Virginia is in the territory of better rates—and doesn't want out.

The Montana legislature wants TVA to use copper wiring instead of aluminum which, it says, is mostly imported.

And we conclude with a petition from the commissioners of Atlantic City, home of national conventions, against spending federal money to level out freight rates to give the South a lift but the West Virginia legislature objects. West Virginia is in the territory of better rates—and doesn't want out.

Washington. They don't want any competition from THAT source.

PLANTING A NEW CROP OF CONFIDENCE

Under the
CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—When the Wisconsin Republican party proves its rebirth in 1940—as Republican stump-speak-ers are even now assuring the public it will—one of the young men who will tag along well up front will be Reuben W. Peterson, majority floorleader this winter in the Wisconsin assembly.

Tagging along, however, isn't quite the correct phrase. "Pet" will be one of those leading the march, if march it is, and he will acquit himself well. For the representative of Green Lake and Waushara counties is one of those young men who will rise, if the G.O.P. in Wisconsin doesn't suffer a relapse.

A thorough-going conservative, popular, more competent than most men who find themselves in the legislature, and as ambitious as any young lawyer who comes there, "the gentleman from Green Lake" has a political future and knows it well.

In fact the only reason, as far as legislative experts can see, that he isn't occupying the rostrum as speaker of the house today is his excellent reputation as a "bon vivant." There are dyes in the legislature still; their votes cast the balance in favor of Vernon Thomson, who is incidentally a bosom pal and roommate of the former.

Somewhat indolent, but ready to speak for his conservative philosophy at any time, Peterson in debate is too painstaking to be eloquent. He is the successful country lawyer, not brilliant, but possessing of humor and compensating talents.

Another woman writes: "Doctor . . . of . . . (village) a few miles from the city where the woman resides) removed my diseased tonsil in four treatments by diathermy. After each treatment I came home and ate a hearty dinner. The next day my throat felt rather sore, but I never missed a meal. Our doctor here was skeptical about removing tonsils by this method when he heard I was receiving the treatment, but he admits now that all of the tonsil is gone and the throat on that side is as clean as can be."

Another instance where the doctors in the city are backward, or perhaps too busy trying to maintain an imposing front, while the doctors in the village are wide awake and keeping up with the progress of the profession.

The best practice has proved that it is good sense to apply the therapeutic test in cases of focal infection where the septic focus is apparently in the tonsil. That is, try the effect of diathermy—electro-coagulation—treatment. Often the first, second or third diathermy treatment produces a general reaction followed by extraordinary relief of the systemic trouble, as no loss of time from my work and very little discomfort. I am grateful. (Mrs. E. E. H.)

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

CONSERVATIVE TREATMENT OF LOCAL INFECTION
Apart from theory, experience and observation in actual practice have proved the principle of focal infection is sound. A great many people suffer with mild or occasional joint inflammation or other vague "rheumatic" trouble which is due to a septic focus or depot of infection in some part of the body, most frequently, perhaps, in a tonsil.

Formerly such sufferers, having tried out many medicines, diets and physio-therapeutic treatments, were confronted with the question of submitting to a major operation—surgical tonsillectomy. That is, unless they were very poor risks indeed.

A lady aged 75 years with some such trouble did a rather childish thing—she travelled from her own town, where there were plenty of food doctors, to the best advertised clinic far away. When she had gone there the mill there the big shot in charge of tonsil finishing assured her that all the trouble was no doubt due to her bad tonsils, but on account of her age, her weak heart and her general poor condition nothing could be done for her. She could only go home and try to grin and bear her burden until—and that wouldn't be long, the quack implied. This was before the boys in the big clinic got wind of what the no-so-called "known" doctors who practice under their own names were accomplishing with diathermy.

The lady got her dander up, scouted around, found a doctor an easy bus-ride from her home who extirpates tonsils with diathermy, and today she enjoys greatly improved health.

Another woman writes: "Doctor . . . of . . . (village) a few miles from the city where the woman resides) removed my diseased tonsil in four treatments by diathermy. After each treatment I came home and ate a hearty dinner. The next day my throat felt rather sore, but I never missed a meal. LADIES PLEASE REMOVE THEIR HATS
Editor, Post-Crescent—I went to the movie last night. It was a dandy, but I was most interested in the baldness of the men. Baldness is increasing among our women because they keep their hats on. In order to see the picture I had to look past feathers, grapes and flowers on the hats of the women in front of me. I moved three times to get out from behind one of these feathered, grape or flowered hats plant herself down in front of me and as a consequence I saw and enjoyed about half of the picture.

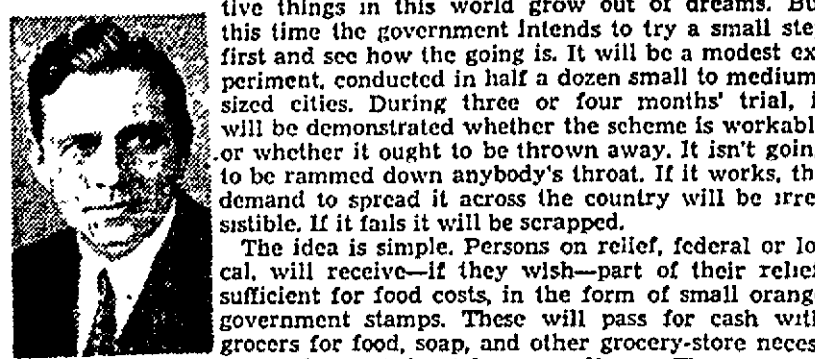

Years ago women wore bigger hats and they insisted on keeping them on. The hats got bigger and bigger and interfered with enjoyment of plays and shows to such an extent that theater managers were compelled to either put up signs "Ladies will please remove their hats" or go out of business.

The ladies took off their hats and all was serene for many years. The ladies wore cute little hats that didn't interfere with the screen. No kick on that but now the French milliners have decreed that American women adorn themselves with monstrosities hung with feathers, flowers, grapes and other dinged-dings.

Government Cautious About New Food Distribution Plan

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Having learned by bitter experience, department of agriculture officials are moving with extreme caution and conservatism in their new plan for financing distribution of surplus food to relievers through grocery stores.

They have big dreams, to be sure, because the most important constructive things in this world grow out of dreams. But this time the government intends to try a small step first and see how the going is. It will be a modest experiment, conducted in half a dozen small to medium-sized cities. During three or four months' trial, it will be demonstrated whether the scheme is workable or whether it ought to be thrown away. It isn't going to be rammed down anybody's throat. If it works, the demand to spread it across the country will be irresistible. If it fails it will be scrapped.

The idea is simple. Persons on relief, federal or local, will receive—if they wish—part of their relief, sufficient for food costs, in the form of small orange government stamps. These will pass for cash with grocers for food, soap, and other grocery-store necessities—but not for tobacco or liquor. These orange stamps, for the food budget, will be simply payment in another form, of relief now being received.

With every dollar in orange stamps a reliever will also be given 50 cents in blue stamps—an extra subsidy payment. These subsidy stamps can be used only for purchase of certain surplus commodities to be designated by the department of agriculture—probably eggs, butter, citrus fruits, prunes, raisins and a few other commodities in which unmovable surpluses exist.

At present the government buys up carload lots of these surplus products and gives them away to relievers. Instead of that the government will distribute stamps to consumers on relief and permit them to buy the surpluses through regular retail food stores. Instead of a dead purchase at the producing end, the customer will be financed and will suck the surplus through the ordinary business routes, thus stimulating, it is hoped, general food buying.

Producers will advertise these surplus commodities as special bargains, and not only relievers but ordinary customers will take advantage of these sales of oranges and other surplus commodities.

No Inspection Of Grocers Is Involved

No inspection, regulating, or auditing of grocers is involved. Wholesale and retail grocers will operate as usual. The only difference will be that some customers,

Instead of buying for cash, will use the colored government stamps, which the grocer can cash at his bank or post office.

Department of agriculture officials have held many consultations with men in the food trade and think they have made out of the bugs out of the plan. Trade people thus far consulted have indicated favorable reaction. Why not? The scheme does nothing to them except to subsidize customers and increase volume.

The plan is intended to use up surpluses, to put this surplus food into the hands of people who need it, and incidentally to increase the volume of business. Some left-wingers in the department of agriculture are slightly snooty about the scheme because business would draw some incidental benefit from it. But it is going to be tried out, nevertheless. If it works and appears on trial to deserve application throughout the country, it will be pushed with all vigor. If it encounters much resistance, it will be abandoned. This sort of thing can work only if it is supported by broad public approval.

Will Be Tried Out In Test Communities

Food trade officials meet here next Monday for conferences with department of agriculture officials, principally with Milo Perkins, head of the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, who has done much of the preparatory work on the plan.

In these conferences, another hunt for bugs will occur. The tentative plans will be shaken down on a basis of those discussions and will be submitted in test communities within a few weeks thereafter. Careful records will be kept during these experiments to see what the exact effect of the plan is on retail food purchasing, and from those figures the possibilities in national application of the scheme can be judged with considerable accuracy and plans made accordingly.

Washington's Society Aims at Garden Party for Royal Couple

BY BETH CAMPBELL

Washington (AP)—Washington women are leaving a deluge of calling cards at the British embassy in the hope of being invited to a garden party for King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

The rush began when Sir Ronald and Lady Lindsay reopened the embassy after several weeks' absence. Today the stack of cards for this season was two feet three inches high.

More than 100 persons called in one afternoon. Of course, this does not mean all of them saw Lady Lindsay. The women merely drove up, leave their cards at the door, and drive away.

The American-born Lady Lindsay always has the largest calling list in town, and her absence damned up the usual flow of cards, but tea-table talk makes it obvious that a possible chance to meet the British royal couple was the biggest reason for the influx.

They're Hoping

Society veterans were taking no chances on missing an invitation just because they delayed too long on their annual call. Even so, if the ambassador does give a garden party for the king and queen, it undoubtedly will be limited to high officials and the cream of society.

national application of the scheme can be judged with considerable accuracy and plans made accordingly.

Those Micawbers who prefer to let nature take its course won't let the scheme. More practical people will encourage the experiment to see how it works out.

Wisconsin's Health

BY DR. C. A. HARPER, M.D., State Health Officer

An outbreak of a communicable disease such as our recent epidemic of la grippe may not cause many deaths, but it makes us acutely aware of the microscopic world that flourishes right under our noses.

There was once a scientist who spent so much time peering through his microscope to get a play-by-play account of life among the germs that he finally forgot which end of the instrument he belonged to.

These germs run pretty much of a size, if you can call it size, but they have many shapes. They live a lifetime in a day or two of central standard time. Some of them are harmless, some annoying, and some are downright murderous to our race of giants.

Our side has found specific preventives against certain types of germs, but not against all of them. Hence we have to depend upon the protection offered by cleanliness, to shield our bodies from these invisible mobs, and hope for the best.

Recognizing these hazards, Wisconsin enforces all possible cleanliness in the operation of hotels and restaurants, the latter including taverns which serve meals. Most taverns and soft drink places, however, do not come under

Aware of these dangers, many of our cities, notably Kenosha, Racine, Milwaukee, Janesville, La Crosse and Sheboygan, and more recently Wausau, are enforcing ordinances which require thorough cleansing of eating and drinking utensils after use.

Appleton Girl Scouts Will Participate in Nation-Wide Celebration of Anniversary

APPLETON Girl Scouts will join with their fellow members throughout the nation in observing the twenty-seventh anniversary of scouting next week. Although national plans call for a huge birthday party in New York City next Wednesday with Mrs. Herbert Hoover of Palo Alto, Calif., honorary vice president, and Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke, Washington, D. C., president, as guests of honor, the Appleton Girl Scouts will divide their observance of the week into troop activities which will begin Sunday and continue throughout the week.

All Girl Scouts of the city will attend their own churches Sunday morning to open the observance of national Girl Scout week, and many of the churches are giving recognition to the Girl Scouts during the services.

Troops 1 and 21 and Brownie pack 1 of St. Mary church will begin birthday week by attending the 7:30 mass Sunday morning at the church and receiving communion with their fathers and men of the Holy Name society. The girls will attend the Holy Name breakfast afterwards in Columbia hall. St.

Theresa Girl Scouts of Troop 3 and 17 will follow the same plan, attending mass and communion with the Holy Name society in the morning and having breakfast afterwards.

Will Attend Mass
Troops 2 and 20 of St. Joseph's church will attend the 9:30 mass Sunday morning at their church and will be guests at a party Sunday afternoon in St. Joseph's hall to be given by the troop committee. Troops 3 and 6 of Sacred Heart church will attend mass at their church also.

Having complied with the religious side to the Girl Scout program, the various troops will sponsor social and educational activities during the week. Edison school Brownie pack 3 will have a story telling meeting Monday afternoon at the church at which time the story of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting, and of the scout movement will be told.

A candy sale, proceeds of which will be turned over to the Juliette Low fund for the promotion of internationalism, will be sponsored by Jefferson troop 12 Monday afternoon at the school. Mrs. Thorstein Johnson and Mrs. Russell Spoor are leaders of that troop.

Tea for Mothers
Edison Girl Scout troop 5 and the Brownie pack from that school will join in putting on a tea for their mothers at 3 o'clock next Thursday afternoon at the Girl Scout house. Miss Dorothy Petron, local director of scouting, will speak to the mothers. Mrs. Ted Heinritz and Mrs. A. O. Kuehnsted are leaders of the troop and Mrs. H. J. Weller is leader of the Brownies.

A special book display on Girl Scout work for all ages including adults will be arranged at Appleton Public library next week, under the auspices of Roosevelt troop 15 of which Mrs. Roland Nock and Mrs. O. R. Burch are leaders.

The national birthday party in New York next Wednesday will be broadcast over the air from 4:15 to 4:45, during which time a number of radio notables will entertain. Among these will be Jessica Dragonette, radio and concert favorite; Nila Mack, director of the CBS "Let's Pretend" program, winner of the radio editor's 1938 poll for the best children's program; Morton Downey, tenor; and Alice Frost, "Big Sister" of CBS, who will be mistress of ceremonies.

Franco Prepares To Open Attacks On Coast, Madrid

organizing the city's defenses against the advancing communists.

The new uprising came after Mija had quelled a first 48-hour communist insurrection and while Spanish nationalists were reported planning assaults on Madrid and Cartagena after having established a "starvation blockade" of the republic's coast.

Throughout the central zone, defense council agents were arresting communist party members suspected of participating in the revolution.

Plans Double Attack
Dispatches reaching the border indicated nationalist General Franco planned a double attack against the coast and against Madrid to speed surrender by the Madrid defense council under General Mija, without wasting more time on discussion of terms.

A message reported to have been intercepted from the republican naval base at Cartagena said the nationalist fleet had arrived off that port, and that the few small warships remaining there under republican command were ordered out in "suicide patrol" to prevent the nationalist landing "at all costs."

Franco himself was reported by dispatches from Burgos to have taken personal command on the Madrid front.

The nationalist blockade proclaimed at Burgos yesterday extended from Sagunto to Adra, northern and southern limits of the Mediterranean coast-line held by the republicans.

All shipping, regardless of cargo or flag, was warned it would be liable to capture if it entered within the three-mile limits between those points.

Submarines patrolled before Cartagena and were ready to sink suspected shipping at sight.

The first victim of the blockade was the French merchant vessel, La Corse, which was captured and taken into the nationalist port of Barcelona.

Elevator Strike at Minneapolis Settled

Minneapolis—A strike of elevator operators and service workers at 34 Minneapolis downtown public office buildings was settled late yesterday. It had been in progress since last week, causing thousands of workers and others to walk up flights of stairs as many as 25 flights in some cases—daily.

Acceptance of an employers' proposal was voted by the membership of the AFL Building Service Employees union.

Sentence Deferred on Charge of Speeding

Dave Gurnee, 207 N. Appleton street, pleaded guilty of speeding when he appeared before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court yesterday afternoon. Sentence was deferred for a month. Gurnee was arrested by city police shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon on N. Badger avenue.

Martin Says Lakes States Will Fight For Their Own Ports

Milwaukee—(7)—Attorney General John L. Martin announced today that the Great Lakes states, port cities and shippers would make common cause of a fight for the "legal and natural right to ship to the markets of the world direct from Great Lakes ports and without compulsory transfer at the Atlantic coast toll-gate."

Martin's announcement followed conferences with attorneys general of Michigan, Ohio and Indiana, and officials of the Great Lakes Harbors association, port cities and affected shippers.

"This is a battle of the Atlantic coast against the Great Lakes and we will fight to create and maintain free enterprise out here so that our people may have employment and activity," Martin said.

He added that attorneys general of the lakes states would be in Chicago March 13, when the maritime commission conducts a hearing on the north Atlantic steamship lines contracts against which lakes interests have protested.

Martin and R. E. Malia, secretary of the Great Lakes Harbors association, will confer with officials and witnesses in Chicago Sunday night.

Cost to Re-Build Radio Station Is Below Estimates

Expense of Project Will Be $2,000 Under Expected Figure

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau
Oshkosh—The re-location of Winnebago county's police radio station WAKE was completed at a cost considerably less than the county board originally estimated, County Clerk Arthur E. Hedke reported to the board this week.

In October of last year, the board authorized the sheriff's department to spend $8,000 in the construction and transfer of radio equipment from the old site in the city of Oshkosh to a new location on the county farm property.

In Hedke's annual report for the fiscal year, it was pointed out that of that amount appropriated, only $5,882.21 has been used for the purpose with only a few small bills remaining unpaid. Members of the sheriff's and coroners committee of the board stated that with the payment of these minor accounts, the total work will still be about $2,100 under the appropriation.

Supervisor E. F. Dornbrook, Menasha, stated that much credit for the saving to the county in this matter is due Marshall Searle, chief operator of the station. Dornbrook stated that Searle worked on much of the equipment in his home and during spare time and was responsible for keeping the cost to a minimum.

A resolution signed by Supervisors Cater, Howe, Ackerman, Pfeiffer, Kannenberg and Drexler of Oshkosh; Hughes, town of Neenah, and Jackson, Omro, asked the board to rescind action taken in the November session which gave approval of the relocation of Highway 41 to skirt the city of Oshkosh.

These supervisors stated they had further information on the subject of the proposed relocation and would like to reconsider the action taken in November of last year.

Before any debate took place, the resolution was referred to the highway committee for study. It was due to come up today.

5th Annual Home Show Will be Held Here March 22-26

More Than 5,000 Expected to Attend 1939 Event at Armory

What 1939 has to offer for those who are interested in building new homes or improving those in which they now live will be displayed to people of Appleton and vicinity when the Knights of Pythias sponsor their fifth annual Better Housing and Home Show at Armory G March 22-26.

Announcement of the dates for the show—one of Appleton's most popular annual events—was made today by Herman Heckert, who, with Robert O. Schmidt, will direct the work of arranging the displays. Based on the growth of the show in the past years, the 1939 event should bring out well over 5,000 people for the five evenings and two afternoons. Doors will be open in the armory on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings, March 22, 23, and 24, and on both Saturday and Sunday afternoons and evenings, March 25 and 26. Appleton building firms and those affiliated with the industry will have booths at the Better Housing and Home Show, it was announced today.

Special musical entertainment, a new decoration scheme for the armory, and more attractive booths than ever before are expected to bring out a record crowd to an event which has built around an institution with which all people are concerned—the home.

When the home show was first held five years ago, attendance reached 3,000. Last year, the fourth annual event, it moved up to 5,000 and a comparable gain is forecast by the Knights of Pythias for 1939.

Ichang Target of Japanese Planes

1,500 Persons Reported Killed in Two Days of Aerial Attacks

Hankow China—(AP)—The Episcopal American church mission in Ichang reported tonight that two of the mission's three properties in the city had been severely damaged by Japanese bombs in a devastating aerial attack last Wednesday.

Shanghai—(AP)—Authoritative neutral foreign sources at Ichang, goal of a Japanese offensive into the heart of China, reported today that 1,500 persons had been killed or wounded there in two days of terrific bombardment by squadrons of Japanese warplanes. It was estimated 120 bombs had crashed into the center of the city, which lies on the Yangtze river, nearly 1,000 miles by water from Shanghai. The ancient north wall was almost completely leveled along with many shops and houses. A large portion of the population—normally 112,000—was reported in flight by river and roadway.

In view of past tactics, foreign observers at Shanghai believed the Japanese quickly would follow up the air raids with a smash westward from the Han river, Yangtze tributary, 75 miles away. Japanese planes and cruisers bombed and shelled coastal points of southern Fukien province in what may be the prelude to extension of the Japanese invasion to a new quarter of the South China coast.

There were no reports of an attempted landing, but dispatches from Anhui told of severe punishment from sea and air of mainland points opposite Kulsang, international settlement island. Flights of bombers flew over Kulsang several times.

Commission May Appeal Rule on Driving Hours

Madison—(AP)—The public service commission said today it probably would appeal to the supreme court a ruling by the St. Croix county court that the state could not criminally prosecute an interstate truck or bus line for violating the commission's general order on driver hours of labor.

In the case of Roy Hopkins, driver for Olinco Motor Express, of River Falls, Judge Thomas E. Gartry ruled that Hopkins' arrest on charges of violating the state order was invalid because interstate commerce commission regulations, under which there would have been no claim of violation, superseded Wisconsin's.

The state commission on March 1 adopted regulations conforming with those of the federal commission, but Hopkins was arrested before that date.

Charges Ford Company Abetted CIO Split

New York—(AP)—R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO wing of the United Automobile Workers, charged today that representatives of the Ford company had been instrumental in forcing Martin's decision to form a union of automobile workers outside the CIO.

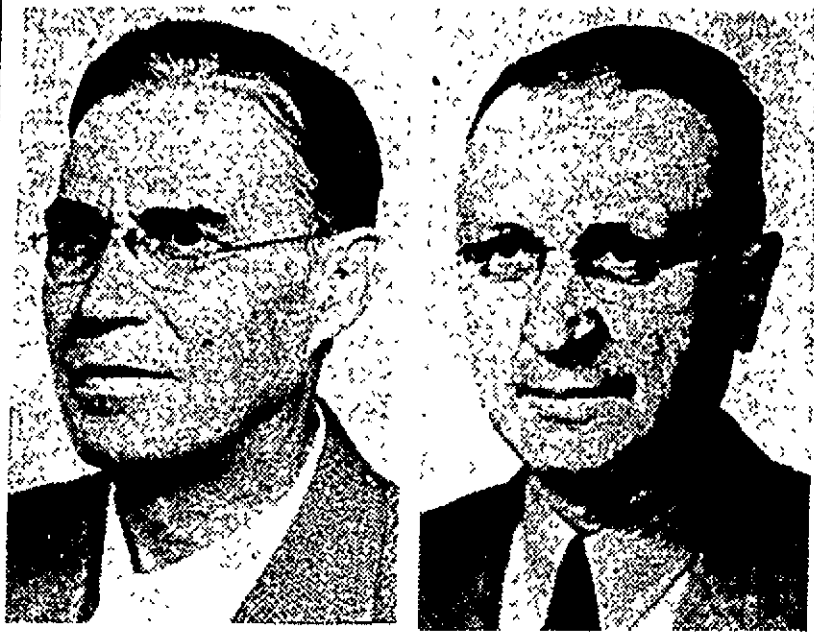

Thomas said that Martin, now head of an anti-CIO group of workers, was told by Ford representatives that the company would "see to it that their workers joined" such a union.

He attended several conferences at which John Gillespie, former Detroit police commissioner and now representative of Harry Bennett of the Ford motor company urged Martin to "pull the auto workers out of CIO," Thomas said.

Engineers Will Hold Meeting at Milwaukee

The 1939 Engineering conference for engineers in Wisconsin will be held at the Hotel Pilsner, Milwaukee from March 15 to 17. The meeting will be sponsored by the Engineering Society of Wisconsin.

CO-CHAIRMEN FOR 1939 HOME SHOW

Robert O. Schmidt (left) and Herman Heckert are co-chairmen for the fifth annual Better Housing and Home Show which will be sponsored by the Knights of Pythias at Armory G March 22-26. More than 5,000 people of this vicinity are expected to attend the event.

throw obstacles in the way of anyone else selling milk except on their terms and at their price.

Howe named National Dairy Products corporation and the Borden company as controlling a major share of the milk industry along with three lesser milk companies which he did not name.

These companies, he said, with the large meat packing concerns "dominate if they do not control" the entire dairy industry. Howe testified that the average price of a quart of milk was 12.5 cents in 12 large cities, while prices in Detroit and Chicago ranged from 6 and 7 to 8 cents a quart.

"In Detroit," Howe said, "one of the largest distributors distributes wholly through stores, of which he has 40. He pays the farmers as much, if not more, than do the big distributors. He admits to governmental agents that he is making a handsome return on his business, selling milk from 6 to 8 cents a quart."

Retailers Speak for And Against Bill to Outlaw Trade Stamps

Madison—(AP)—Department store officials and retailer spokesmen debated the value of trading stamps as a business practice before the senate committee on corporations and taxation yesterday, with proponents terming stamp issuance an "upright proposition" and opponents calling it a "lure" and "concealment."

With one exception, representatives of Milwaukee, Madison, Oshkosh, Green Bay and LaCrosse department stores opposed a bill sponsored by Cornelius Young (D), which would prohibit stamp issuance with the sale of articles subject to so-called "fair trade" agreements between manufacturers and retailers.

Criticizing trading stamps as an unfair business practice and one which gave rise to cut-throat competition were speakers for retail furniture dealers, gasoline dealers, druggists, food dealers, jewelers, appliance dealers and Benjamin Post, representing Gimbel Brothers department store of Milwaukee. Poss said stamp issuance was "really a cut in price" and not a cash discount as proponents of the practice contended.

R. E. Voight, representing the Milwaukee Boston store, presented an opposite view, opposing Young's bill on grounds it would fail to equalize competition and had no basis in popular demand.

Voight said a survey of Milwaukee customers showed more than 90 per cent in favor of stamp issuance.

Madison Hotel Wins Dismissal in Suit For $18,000 Damages

Madison—(AP)—Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis dismissed yesterday a suit against the Loraine hotel company asking $18,000 damages for the death of Ulysses Greener, of Milwaukee, who committed suicide at the hotel in June, 1936.

Plaintiffs in the action were Mrs. Margaret M. Greener, the widow, and the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co.

Judge Reis ruled a hotel is not liable financially for suicides occurring in its rooms and that its employees are not expected to pass medical judgment on the condition of guests.

The complaint alleged the hotel was negligent for not giving closer attention to Greener who was injured in a traffic accident three days before his body was found.

Third Person Is Sought in Ohio Mystery Death

Couple Held on First Degree Charges of 'Murder by Automobile'

Norwalk, Ohio—(AP)—The arrest of a third person in the death of Carl Schlett, 29, which the state charges was a bizarre "murder by automobile," was foreseen today by Slat Highway Patrolman Ray Abrams. Blond Mrs. Coletta Schlett, 28, widow of the riding enthusiast and paper factory employe, and Harold Hastings, 35, a neighbor of the Sandusky, Ohio, couple, were held on first degree murder charges.

"Our investigation is not ended," said Abrams, assigned to the case after Schlett's battered body was found beside a country highway Jan. 27. "We believe a third person not yet arrested is involved."

Russell Ramsey, Hastings' counsel, said his client had not left Sandusky on the night Schlett met death 15 miles away.

"On that night I never saw Schlett any place," Ramsey quoted Hastings. "I look at this thing just like I'm reading a newspaper story about somebody else and I'm wondering who it could be."

Auto-Truck Crash
Ramsey said Hastings, identified by police as a former convict, told him that on the night of Jan. 26 he drove to a Sandusky casino, near which his car collided with a truck, damaging the auto's headlight and fender.

Hastings said he went to the truck driver's home, visited friends in the neighborhood and returned to the casino," Ramsey added. "Then he went to the police station and reported the truck accident. He reached home a little after 9 p. m."

Mrs. Schlett, who has a 6-year-old daughter, Donna Jean, was quoted by her mother, Mrs. Stephen S. Ringholz, as saying, "I know I'll be vindicated."

Prosecutor Rev. Bracy, who said Mrs. Schlett "had often been seen in Hastings' car," asserted Schlett's insurance policies, which would provide payment of $12,500 in case of accidental death, had been discussed by the couple in Hastings' presence.

Urges Continuance of Farm Credit Branch in Finance Hearing
Madison—(AP)—Lawyers, businessmen, and legislators urged the joint finance committee yesterday to continue operations of the farm and home credit administration.

The department requested $49,500 annually, but Governor Heil recommended no funds in his budget.

Director G. W. Gunderson said 6,700 home and farm owners had been assisted and that their indebtedness had been reduced $15,000,000 through negotiation and mediation. More than $20,000 had been paid in delinquent taxes, he added.

Senator Sauld, (Dem.) Pembine, said the department should be continued because loans arranged by it kept small factories open and farmers and home owners off relief rolls and WPA.

Retirement Bill Is Offered in Assembly
Madison—(AP)—At the request of Ben Rubin (D) Milwaukee, the assembly committee on municipalities introduced today a bill providing for a Wisconsin municipal retirement fund for all municipal employees except teachers.

The fund, which would be administered by a five man board of trustees, provides for retirement of police and firemen at 60 and other employees at 65 years.

The village has been operating on a tax rate of only 50 cents on $100 of valuation.

Level of Snow, Ice Drops Rapidly as Mercury Moves Up

Warm Weather Will Continue in Appleton Area Tomorrow

Bright sunshine today continued to beat down from cloudless skies on the snow banks left from the weekend snow storm and the Milwaukee weather bureau promised more warm weather for Friday in Appleton and vicinity.

However, the weatherman said Friday might be cloudy and that the warm weather may be followed by snow in the northern part of the state and rain or snow in the southern portion.

Appleton street crews continued their snow removal operations and this afternoon the men were opening gutters and catchbasins so that water collecting on streets and intersections could run into storm sewers. Highways in the county were reported in good condition today.

The thermometer reached a 24-hour low at 4 o'clock this morning when it registered 22 degrees above zero, according to charts at the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company. At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the mercury stood at 38 degrees.

At noon today atop the Post-Crescent roof the temperature reached 34 degrees above zero. Highest temperatures for the last 24-hour period were recorded at Miami and Tampa, Fla., and Abilene, Tex., where the mercury hit 82 degrees. At Williston, N. D., the thermometer sunk to 4 degrees below zero.

Morgenthau Cites Progress in Talks On U. S. Tax Revision
Washington—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau indicated today progress in conversations of treasury officials with President Roosevelt on tax revision, aimed at increasing business confidence.

He made the statement to reporters before going to the White House for a conference with the president, Senator Harrison (D-Miss.) and Undersecretary of the Treasury John W. Hanes.

Morgenthau said he could give no hint of the details of the prospective conversations, but, smiling broadly, said the progress of the discussions was indicated by the fact that he and Hanes were invited back to the White House today after discussing the subject with the president yesterday.

Newsman Cancel F.D.R. Dinner; Strike Cause
Washington—(AP)—The capital's hotel strike resulted today in cancellation of the annual dinner given President Roosevelt by the White House Correspondents association.

More than 600 newsmen and their guests had been invited to attend the annual party at the Mayflower hotel Saturday night. The hotel was one of 13 using their own trucks to obtain supplies of milk, bread and beer because organized truck drivers refused to cross picket lines.

It Is Said--

That although the biggest percentage of Appleton high school seniors rank with the best students in the state, a recent current events quiz showed that four years in high school did very little for some seniors. Four students did not know the name of the president of the United States and identified him as both a representative from Wisconsin and the secretary of the treasury. However, one student in the quiz topped the others and identified the following: Harold Ickes, the United States premier to Great Britain; Stalin, the governor of Spain; John L. Lewis, United States senator; Homer Martin, the speaker of the house; and Henry Morgenthau, a member of the supreme court.

That a new system of making members of the Crocheting club remember to bring their work to school is meeting with success at Wilson Junior High school. The girls who forget to bring their work to school on club day must pay a fine of two cents. So far only 14 cents has been collected. The money will be used to buy pattern books.

That the Appleton city council still is being reminded of its famed fight over the installation of parking meters two years ago. Mayor Goodland this morning received a letter from Mason City, Iowa, asking information on parking meters and what objections were raised against them.

Misplaced Internal Organs Discovered During Operation
Chicago—(AP)—George Vales was described by physicians today as one man in ten million.

They said he was afflicted with situs inversus—which is a medical term describing the conditions of a person whose internal organs are misplaced.

Discovery of the 21-year-old youth's topsy turvy condition was made when he underwent an appendectomy.

Dr. Joseph Kostrubala found that Vales' appendix, which was ruptured, was on the left side, where it shouldn't be. Then he also discovered that the other organs of the viscera were transposed. Vales' liver and gall bladder were on the left side, his stomach on the right. Vales had known previously that his heart was on the right side of the chest cavity.

Physicians said there were only about 200 similar cases in medical records.

American Indian Lore

BY PHEBE JEWELL NICHOLS (Mrs. A. F. Lockwood)

As Indians developed their communal religious life, they developed their implements of ritual. These were the drum or tom tom and the pipe. Auxiliaries to the ritual were tobacco and fire. With these aids, religious feeling found expression in dance and song and solemn speech in the ceremonies.

Most tribes have a word for the tom tom which means "messenger" or "teller." Also, it has been likened to "the talking heart of all mankind." Made in various sizes, the water drum so constructed as to hold water at different depths to produce the desired resonance, the flatter drum, designed to be suspended a few inches from the ground for better resonance, all with raw hide basses and wooden sides, these drums when struck with the padded tip of the drum sticks were capable of sending sound great distances. This mysterious vocal sonority of the drum made it a sacred object. It was painted with symbols and decorated as the artistic inclination of the tribe indicated. Among the Algonquins, it was trimmed with exquisite porcupine quill embroidery and copper ornaments. (Fine examples of this sort of drum may be found at the public museums of Oshkosh and Milwaukee). The drum reposed in the care of some member of the clan who was delegated to look after it and was brought forth for the ceremonies.

Calumet is the word commonly used for the ceremonial pipe of the North American Indians. It is a word of Latin-French origin meaning "reed" or "stem" and was applied no doubt because of the unusually long stems which characterized these pipes. The most highly valued pipes were those made from the red cattail found at Pipestone, Minnesota. So universal was the importance of the ceremonial pipe that this region became neutral ground for all the Indian tribes of the continent. Once in the region of the sacred pipestone, enemies were, for the time, not enemies but brothers, as they went about the common task of securing the precious material. The cattail was carved into pipe bowls with stems into which could be fitted even longer stems of carved wood. The carvings on the pipe often showed the clan totem and traditional symbols, its bowl was often inlaid with silver and copper and it was decorated with elaborately painted feather ornaments and bead motifs.

Had Great Significance

The pipe had great political and religious significance. It functioned at councils, inter-tribal conferences, and treaty making and on this latter account got its name. Pipe of Peace. It was a noble emblem of authority. As it was passed from lip to lip and was smoked, the action indicated a unity of thought and devotion to a cause and stamped the occasion as one of serious import. Smoking the pipe when not in accord with the others in the assembly was considered an act of unforgivable false-heartedness. As the Indians smoked, emphasizing their oneness of mind, the smoke wended its way upward in salutation to the Great Spirit.

At a religious gathering, the pipe served as a vessel of prayer. Lighted with a coal from the ceremonial fire, it was smoked first by the leader who was sometimes the chief, sometimes the Medicine Man, as the occasion demanded. (There were chiefs who were also Medicine Men). Then it was passed solemnly to all the participants and, as the smoke spirals moved upward, so the Indian felt, did their yearnings and hopes and praise. Smoking the pipe opened and closed all religious ceremonies.

The religious use of tobacco seems to be as old as the history of the Indian. Its fragrant smoke, either from pipe, or direct fires as the tobacco leaves were scattered upon it, was a symbol of the fruitful earth which had produced the potent plant and of the upward yearnings of mankind. The interchange of tobacco among Indians meant "We understand the same things." The gift of tobacco to a Medicine Man or chief or to the keeper of the drum or the pipe was a recognition of the sanctity of their relationship. The passing of the tobacco to persons who were to be notified of a council or other convocation denoted the gravity of the occasion and of the individual's part in it. Devout Indians, when gathering plants for medicine placed a bit of tobacco in the earth from which roots had been taken and scattered tobacco over the plant whose bark, fibers, leaves, or flowers had been gathered, as a token of thanks to the Earth Mother. The use of tobacco for pleasure was most unusual. The only deviation from its ceremonial uses was its use by the very old "for whom it is good," as they are approaching the Spirit Land.

In Awe of Fire

Indian philosophy recognized fire as one of the four elements of the universe. Its mysterious power was regarded with awe. To the Indian it was possible to think of it both as an element and as the quintessential embodiment of spiritual force. It felt himself linked to this force by his ability to produce fire, an achievement so old that no one knew when it was not. By means of rotating a pointed stick in a groove or rubbing together a pair of fire sticks, preferably of cedar, to create a spark to fly into a bit of birch bark or slivers of pitch pine, he accomplished the wonder of fire. Once kindled, it was guarded jealously. To neglect a fire was a serious offense, to keep it burning was a privilege and a duty. It was the soul of the hearth. Hearth fires signified the sanctity of the home, the solidarity of the nation. The signal fire held a place of great importance in the Indians' affairs. Mounted on some lofty eminence where its smoke could be seen from afar, tended by a signal corps of scouts, it sent its coded messages abroad. The council fire's purpose to shed heat and light and encourage fraternal feeling was climaxed by the solemnity and power which it typified. Its very presence forbade equivocation, deceit, vacillation. What was done around the council fire must be of the sort upon which its invisible seal of approval could be set. The fire of religious ceremony concentrated in itself every religious concept the Indian had. Before it he sat, devotional, in a kind of dignified humility, conscious of his own dependence upon the great power it symbolized, inspired and akin to all Creation. With the call of tom tom and the smoke of sacred fires, the Indians sought to establish contact with the mighty and invisible miracle of the Cosmos.

Question: Did the Indians boil water in birch bark pails?

Answer: The Indians made a container of birch bark by taking a heavy square piece and folding it so as to make four corners, four upright sides and a base. This, having no seams, was watertight. Hung over hot coals, water in it would come to a boil while the base would toughen and scorch but not burn. The writer did not believe this could be done, so she tried it and found that it could.

Professor Tells Club of Weakness In Nazi-Rome Axis

Freund Says Britain and France Might Save Democracy in Europe

Neenah—Declaring that there are many weak spots in the Berlin-Rome axis, that Hitler and Mussolini do not get along very well, that Mussolini is now too proud to admit he is forced to do as Hitler dictates, Dr. Ludwig Freund, Ripon college, told members of the Twin City Business and Professional Women's club Wednesday evening in the Valley Inn that if British diplomacy and French political strength would take advantage of these weaknesses in the axis, democracy in Europe might be saved.

"The only other way to strengthen democracy in Europe would be approach by England and France to Soviet Russia," said Freund, as he went on to point out that it is not sentiment but dire necessity that outwits most rule actions of nations. "It is interesting to note," he said, "that Hitler forced England and France to abandon their ally, and that France's ally, Russia, and after that alienation, Hitler tries very hard to make advances to Russia which he is condemning repeatedly because of its communism."

"Not three weeks ago we sent a special emissary to Moscow to sound out Soviet Russia's attitude toward Germany, Litvinoff, commissar of foreign affairs, spoiled that plan because he led the group to a refusal of those advances."

One Man Rule

"At the same time, it is important to take cognizance of the fact that Russia is not really communist. There is one man rule just as in fascism and nazism. There is emergence of new classes, an economic stratification of classes. Abandoned by Stalin has been the idea of world revolution. It is Trotsky who has been the propagandist for world revolution and who is still in."

However, it is also important to recognize the fact that if democracies do not stand together, dictators will have a clean sweep. Dictators must have war because of economic conditions within and because of growing unrest and when it comes to war, dictators will sacrifice the life of nations for individual power.

"Here in America, you feel the oceans between protect you but the commercial threat to your nation in case of the fall of democracies abroad is great."

Would Lose Markets

"While you have most of the raw materials within your own country, you do not have some you need most of all, tin, magnesium and rubber, and for these you are dependent upon South America which is one reason your state department and naval departments keep such a watchful eye on South America and the propaganda and commercial interests made by the fascist and Nazi countries. Too, the European continent is still one of your main markets for much of your cotton, wheat and industrial commodities. Should Italy and Germany conquer Europe, you would lose your foreign markets."

"You who want isolation would find your industrial and agricultural markets shriveled up to only national importance with the results of bankruptcy, tremendous increases of unemployment, lowered standards of living and consequent social unrest within your borders."

Germany at present, economically is in a terrific predicament. Her gold reserve is almost gone and she

Schedule Meeting For Fruit Growers

County Agent to Present Last Session of Series Next Tuesday

Menasha—The fourth and final of the series of fruit schools for fruit growers of Winnebago county will be held next Tuesday, according to R. C. Heffernan, Winnebago county agricultural agent. C. L. Kuehner, fruit specialist of the University of Wisconsin will be present.

The afternoon meeting will be held at 1:30 at the Clemansville school while the evening meeting will be at 8 o'clock at the Oak Dale schoolhouse, one mile north of Gillingham's corner on Highway 45.

Plans for the formation of a county cooperative fruit growers association have been under discussion for some time, according to the county agent. The purpose of the cooperative would be to buy nursery stock and orchard equipment cooperatively.

A meeting to perfect a stronger county fruit growers cooperative will be held at 1:30 next Wednesday afternoon at the county agent's office at Oshkosh.

has 77 million people to satisfy with economic wants. The German people pay more taxes than ever before. There is growing unrest within Germany. German people have had to draw their belts a little tighter, they are just as much opposed to war and afraid of war as France or Britain but as long as Hitler has the armed forces of his nation behind him, there is no possibility of upheaval.

Turk Treaty Meets

The speaker also discussed Hitler's economic penetration of central Europe and the Balkans but declared that United States' treaty with Turkey for goods for which Turkey will receive cash and for goods which Turkey can buy cheaply from America, has not been pleasant for Hitler and his plan to make his road through to Bagdad.

United States also has served notice to the British and French that it will consider it an unfriendly act should Britain or France cede any colonial territory to Hitler opposite the North American continent in the Atlantic. It is obvious that Germany and Italy are bent on colonizing and drawing into their orbit, South American territory, into which as well as Mexico, they have already made big inroads with propaganda.

Miss Clara Bloom, chairman of the legislative committee of the club which was in charge of the program, introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Maude Rogers, Mrs. Ida Tauber and Mrs. Charlotte Grunksa were named members of the nominating committee by Miss May Hart, president during the business session. An invitation to state night at the Manitowoc club meeting April 4 was read.

It seeks no common denominator of belief or the lessening of loyalty to one's own household of faith. It believes that these religious groups in an atmosphere of religious liberty may be as separate in creed and ritual as the fingers of the outstretched hand, yet as united as the clenched fist in their impact upon those understandings which are of common interest and concern to them as American citizens."

Neenah—Forty new cases in addition to the regular load were recorded during the first six days of March, Miss Lydia Bouressa, staff supervisor, told members of the Twin City Visiting Nurse association board Wednesday morning at the Twin City Y. New London Upset In Cage Tourney

Bulldogs Bow to East

(Class B District)
LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS
Neenah 31, Clintonville 15.
East DePere 24, New London 19.TONIGHT'S GAMES
7:30—Clintonville versus New London (Consolation).
8:30—Kaukauna versus Waupaca.
9:30—Menasha versus West De-Pere.

BY RANDY HAASE
MENASHA—New London almost did it again. The Bulldogs of New London lived up to their reputation as tough tournament contenders but lost a 24 to 19 decision to East DePere in the opening of the Class B district tournament at the Menasha High school gymnasium Wednesday night. In the other game, Wednesday night, Neenah High school cagers, co-champions of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference, won from Clintonville, 31 to 15, after a close first half.

New London had been established as the favorite Wednesday night, chiefly because of its tournament reputation and because little was known of East DePere. Coach G.
E. Braisher put a tall, heavy team on the floor that handled the ball well and set up a defense that limited New London to six field goals. Douglas Hoier, "Spook" of the New London team, was bottled up by the simple measure of setting one man to guard him.

The Bulldogs held the lead through the first third of the game, holding an 8 to 3 advantage well along in the second quarter. East DePere rallied and before halftime took a 13 to 9 lead. Rosen tossed in two field goals and two free throws in that spurt.

Fights Back
The New London team fought back twice in the last half they reached a tie only to have East DePere clinch the game in the last minute. S. Hammerberg scored a field goal and W. Hammerberg made two free throws count to tie the score at 13-all in the second half.

Daven and M. Phimster, who played an outstanding game at center, connected on field goals to put East in front again 17 to 13.
Hoier scored his second basket of the night on a set shot and Rosen added a free throw for East to tie the score at 18 to 15 at the third quarter.

After nearly 4 minutes of scoreless play in the last quarter Phim-ster made a free throw for East.
New London rallied for the last time to tie the score at 19-all with less than 3 minutes to go. Meiklejohn made a free throw. Hoier sank one and Rosen broke fast for his third field goal to tie the score.

Gets Sneezy
With 50 seconds to go Rosen missed a free throw but Phimster connected the rebound, tossed to Osen in the corner and the De-Pere guard swished a set shot through the net with 30 seconds to go. New London lost control of the ball when Rosen missed two free throws that could have tied the score. The Bulldogs pressed the East team and Rosen missed, opening the final point seconds before the final horn on a free throw.

Osen counted 10 points for East while Phimster made six. For New London Ross had seven points and Hoier five. New London made six out of 37 attempts from the field while East made eight of 53.

Clintonville made a fight of the ball game for the first half against a Neenah team formed mostly of reserve players but wilted in the last quarter when the Red Rocket regulars went in. The Trunkers held the lead for six minutes of the first quarter on baskets by Zemke and Billmeyer but Neenah tied the score at 4-all shortly before the end of the period on baskets by Winkelman and Blank.

Winkelman gave Neenah a lead it never relinquished 3 minutes after the second quarter started but the Trunkers kept within halting distance for two more quarters. The Clintonville team missed many setup shots and missed other points when a man broke clear only to have the passes go wild. The half ended with Neenah ahead 10 to 7.

In the third quarter the Trunkers closed the gap to 12 to 12 with 3 minutes to go but Coach Ole Jorgensen started to put in his first team and Neenah pulled away. Captain Dan Schmidt went into the ball game and counted two baskets before the period ended to give Neenah a 17 to 12 lead.

WRIGHTSTOWN—Ten teams have entered the Northeastern Wisconsin second annual girls' cage tournament which will open Friday night in the Wrightstown High school gymnasium.

Six of the entrants played last season in the tourney. The defending champions, Green Bay Independents, and the runner-up, Little Chute Legion, are again entered. Kaukauna Merchants, Kaukauna C.Y.O., DePere, and Wrightstown are in again. Newcomers this year are St. Joseph Cigarettes of Appleton, Sturgeon Bay Irish Col-

licans, Anawa, and De Cade, which also is called Random Lake.

After the games Friday night, a drawing will take place to have one winning team and one loser draw for a bye on Saturday night.

Semi-finals will be played Sunday afternoon with the finals starting at night. Immediately after the championship game awards will be given out. Eleanor Kroner of the L. C. Legion team was awarded a medal for being the outstanding player last year.

St. John Boxers WillInvade Racine School*Little Chute—St. John High

boxing team will trek to Racine itowoc team which was a pennant contender all season.

Performing for the last time on the local court will be Robert Balley, Wilbur Besch, John Blick, Warren Buesing, Robert DeLeest, Richard Elias, Wes Morris, George

Swamp, John Trautman and Clement Werner, which just about wipes out the 1938-39 team that has plenty of ability and is capable of knocking off just about anything that comes along.

William Burton, sophomore, and

Allan Fraser, junior, are members of this year's team and will form a nucleus for next year's squad.

The Terrors know they should be a couple notches higher because they have clearly shown their superiority during many games this year only to fold and lose out in the closing minutes. The team hopes to erase some of this stigma with a victory Friday night.

Manitowoc Strong

Coach Nello Pacetti will bring a flock of good basketball men to Appleton, outstanding of whom are

Mueller and Keune, guards; Mc-Donnell, Knell and Morris, forwards; Schmidt, Steckmesser, centers.

Coach Joseph Shields intends to substitute freely because many of the boys have been sick and aren't quite as strong as they should be.

Too, he wants to give all the departing players a chance to show their wares. Shields has nominated Buesing and Werner for the starting forward posts. Swamp and Bailey at guard and Blick at center. The competition started against Sheboygan

Central last week and played good ball.

Wes Morris, brilliant guard, may not be able to play Friday night.

The lad is recuperating from an illness.

The undefeated Appleton reserves will be looking for their seventeenth straight triumph when they tangle with the Lincoln high seconds in a preliminary tussle at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening.

Class B Meet Gets Underway at Menasha

With enthusiasm running high, play opened last night in the Class B district tournament at Menasha High school. East DePere upset New London and Neenah had an easy time in defeating Clintonville.

Exchanging greetings in the picture are, left to right, Olin G. Dryer, Kaukauna High school principal; Frank B. Younger, superintendent of Menasha Public schools; A. J. Armstrong, Menasha High school principal and tournament manager.

Perry Working Hard for Pro Tennis Tour With Don Budge

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK—(AP)—Fred Perry has such tennisers as Berkeley Bell, Gregory S. Mangin, Francis X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood working in relays tuning him up for his pro tour with Don Budge.

Larry MacPhail will bet you the National League's first division this year will not consist of the Cubs, Pirates, Reds and Giants.

Picture syndicate sent out a photo of young Dick Sisler captioned: "... son of George Sisler who once thrilled National league fans. . . ."

Golfer Jug McSpaden says his infant son who arrived a few days ago is the first guy he's seen in months who didn't inquire about his putting. . . . Henry Armstrong may go in for writing poetry when he quits the rink, and L. C. Davis says in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch: "He might do verse."

Mrs. Joe McCarthy is very much better at St. Pete. . . . Al Alvarez Toledo U. guard, is a dead ringer for Mickey Cochrane; Gene Tunney's double is head usher in a Times Square theater and appropriately enough, a guy who is the split image of Jack Dempsey at 18, works in a restaurant in Rockefeller center. . . . Coach Clair Bee is taking bows for turning out his second undefeated Long Island U. basketball team in as many years.

Bill Terry, who paid $75,000 for his Memphis mansion has just shelled out $11,000 more on a roof for same.

Roger Peckinpach, Sr., 75-year-old dad of the manager of the New Orleans Pelicans, plays a wicked shortstop for the St. Petersburg Cubs—a team for which no player is eligible unless he can prove he is 10 or more.

SEERS GAMES
Appleton Merchants of the City-Y. M. C. A. league are looking for games with other quints in the valley. The squad boasts wins over the Sinclair Oils of Kaukauna and Elm Tree Bakers of Appleton. Games can be arranged through Donald Paulke, Owassa street, Appleton, or James Williamson at 3163.

Guldahl already had the confidence but he found his touch in the $5,000 international four-ball tournament which he won with Sam Sneed in a shell-shocking 7-and-5 victory over Herion Smith and Paul Runyan yesterday.

"I never pulled like that in the $5,000," Guldahl smiled. "I figure I have an advantage in the open airway, since it calls for straight hitting off the tee, and if I can keep that putting touch I see no reason why I shouldn't repeat again."

Rock Island, Ill.—Eddie Dempsey, 132, Moline, Ill., outpointed Sam Scully, 132, Chicago, 18.

Boston—Maurice Strickland, 192, New Zealand, knocked out Jack Fallat, 201, Cleveland, 15.

Badgers May Pull Upset in Big Ten Indoor Track Meet

Michigan Is Favored to Win Sixth Consecutive Championship*BY EARL HILLIGAN

CHICAGO—(AP)—Michigan will be an odds-on favorite to win its sixth consecutive championship when the Western conference indoor track and field meet opens tomorrow night at the University of Chicago field house, but Wisconsin's Badgers must be rated a chance of exploding those bright Wolverine hopes.

On a basis of performances in dual meets this season, the Badgers were favored to do no worse than duplicate their 1938 performance—runners up to the Wolverines. But with unpredictable factors more numerous than usual, the Badgers conceivably could snap the long winning streak of the well-balanced Michigan machine.

Ohio Crippled

Influenza caused cancellation of the Michigan-Ohio State meet recently and with the condition of several Ohio State performers still uncertain, a redistribution of points may be decisive in the team fight between the Badgers and titleholders, Bill Watson, shotputter, and Ralph Schwarzkopf, two miler, were two Michigan stars who have been ill and may not be up to standard.

Wisconsin has a strong enough team to step in and take advantage of any "break" which might come its way. Walter Mehl, was favored to take the mile and will put on a real battle with Schwarzkopf for two mile honors, which Mehl won last year. In addition, the Badgers will be favored to win the pole vault with Milt Padway, and in Frank Kauffman have a fine sprinter.

Preliminaries in the meet will be run off tomorrow night with the final Saturday night.

Chicago also will be the scene of the conference wrestling meet, which opens tomorrow, and of the fencing contests, which begin Saturday.

Badger Boxers Face Miami Team

Hold Final Workouts in Preparation for Bouts
Friday Night

Madison—(AP)—Johnny Walsh, University of Wisconsin boxing coach, issued "storm warnings" today as he whipped his glove swingers through final workouts in preparation for the bout with Miami University Hurricanes, of Coral Gables, Fla., here tomorrow night.

Miami, coached by Walsh's close friend, Billy Regan, is reportedly one of the strong teams of the south. Joey Church, Miami 127-pounder, is national amateur champion and was a member of the last United States Olympic team. He is the star of the squad. His opponent will be Jim Walsh, co-captain of the Badgers or Charles Martinec.

To Meet "Southpaw"
Art Walsh, co-captain and lighter of the brother combination, will meet Captain Bunny Lovett at 120 pounds. Gene Rankin, Wisconsin 135 pounder will tangle with George Back, Omar Crocker, 145 pound Badger knockout specialist, will have a "southpaw," George Dolan as his opponent.

Woody Swancutt will tackle Miami's 155 pounder, Nick Seminoff; either Henry Strand or Ray Kramer will represent the Badgers in the 165 pound division against Roe Bonanno; Truman Torgerson, 175 pound Badger will oppose Chick O'Donkski and Nick Leeoff, Wisconsin, and Tommy Kearns, Miami, heavyweights, will close the show.

Johnny O'Donnell, of Davenport, Ia., will referee the match.

Louis Warns FansNot to be Late for*Battle With Roper

Victoria, Calif. (AP)—Joe Louis, 210 pounds of lazzybones and dynamite, yawningly confirmed today a suspicion of California fight fans.

If the cash customers miss the first round, Joe admitted, they probably won't see much of his bout April 17 in Los Angeles with aging Jack Roper.

"I like to get 'em quick," the champion drawled.

The heavyweight champion won't draw on a glove until he finishes his stay at a dude ranch here about 10 days hence and moves in to Pasadena.

Louis rates Max Baer as his most formidable challenger, predicts a Baer victory over Lou Nova, "who can't box much and don't hit hard."

"Then I'll fight Max in September," he said. "In shape, he can lick 'em all—except me."

LEE BARLAMENT'S 623 series and Ken Strutz's 255 game were the scores to match in the Industrial bowling league last night at Arcade alleys.

The Power company had plenty of stuff on paper, chalking high game of 1,027 and high total to 2,830, but dropped two games to Coated Paper.

Strutz shot his high game, following with a 557 series, as Dandy Rollers won two from Woolen Mills.

Barlament, bowling for the Woolen Mills, had games of 212 and 233 on the way to his lofty series and R. Crane turned in a 213 game.

Everett Wagner rolled 234 and 505, Delrow 213 and Barta 222 and 200 as the Fox River five regained the lead by tipping Schlafer's three game straight. Clarence Below hit 211 and 543 for the losing team.

John Moll panned 225 and 538 and Heinritz 200 as Coated Paper took two games from the (1-hole) Power team, led by Mike Sakallars who cracked 207, 206, and 592 and Piper who had 205.

Bob Loessly rolled 235 and 604, Gresenz 204, and D. Strutz 222 as Johnson Shoe-Redbuilders won two from Al's Bar. Roy McCallum's 521 series and C. Schmidt's 200 game were standouts in the losers' column.

Win Two Games

Jim Iverson pumped 572 series, Hermann 208 and R. Miller 207 as Montgomery-War took two from Machine Co. paced by W. Rowan who rolled 201, 212, and 581 and W. Ecker who had 211.

Tuttle Press upset Atlas Printers in two games, Chet Merkle cracking 213 and 529 and J. Fumal 205 for the Tuttle team. Wally Klein bowled 209 and 568, C. Stingle 218, and Vander Velden 209 for the losers.

Wadhams Oil dropped to second place in league standings, winning two games from Atlas Embossers while Fox River swept its losers. Freddie Yelg rapped 204 and 573, J. Reynebeau 201, and O. Gossens 201 for the winners. Lyle Vander Velden slammed 204, 208, and 613 and H. Buck 206 for the Atlas five.

DYNAMITE JOE

Fighting Spirit, Manpower Disappear From Card Ranks

BY GAYLE TALBOT
T. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (7) — Apparently disappeared from the face of the earth, like the hobble skirt and the passenger pigeon, is the remarkable fighting spirit and player reserve that only a few years ago made the St. Louis Cardinals the most feared and respected antagonists in baseball.

Now there is almost a somnolent atmosphere as you motor up to waterfront park here, drowsing in the sun like a ghost town. It is the same old spring training ground of the Red Birds, but the glamour has gone, and most of the residents and tourists are over on the other side of town squinting at the Yankees.

Dizzy Dean, of course, has been gone nearly a year now, and Frankie Frisch, who piloted and controlled as best he could these terrors of another day, has been replaced by Ray Blades, a pleasant fellow and a successful manager these past several seasons at Rochester.

Looking for infield Ray, dangling his bare legs off the dressing room table, declined to predict his team would finish any higher in the approaching National league race than their slopy sixth of 1938. He's new around here, and he's looking for an infield.

In an effort to recover a little of the old "gas house gang" spirit, Blades has appointed the onetime Peppé Martin field captain, even though it is doubtful the Peppé's halting legs will carry him through more than a couple dozen games in the outfield. The Cards hadn't even had a field leader since Lou Durocher went to Brooklyn year before last.

It isn't too difficult to trace the gradual disappearance of that rough and ready, devil-may-care trademark the Cards bore at the height of their fame. It was just a happy accident such a band of talented and eccentric cut-throats chanced to be brought together. Now many of that dauntless crew have been sold or traded, or simply have grown older.

The real mystery lies in the collapse of the great "farm" system. Branch Rickey perfected, which once supplied the Cards with an apparently endless source of stardom material.

System Goes to Pot Well, the system seems to have gone bust. Why, it's hard to say, but the Cards' spring camp no longer is overflowing with ham-handed young outfielders who hit .380 for Houston the year before, or with sensational kid infielders with throwing arms of forged steel. Particularly, there are no infielders to speak of.

It has been suggested that Rickey became angered at a series of adverse decisions by Commissioner Landis, which deprived the Cards of a lot of promising players, and decided to let the farm system he had built so lovingly go to pot. That hardly seems likely, because Rickey doesn't look like a man who would slice his own throat.

Much more sane is the theory that the other clubs, though slow to get started, finally have caught up with the Cardinals in the important matter of raw material.

Kimberly Faces Niagara Cagers In Grudge Tilt

Contest Expected to Decide Question of Cage Supremacy

KIMBERLY—The big battle tonight at the clubhouse between the Kimberly A. A. champs and the Niagara Badgers will settle a question of superiority which has been long standing between the two teams. The Badgers are coming to the village primed to beat the champs and with them will be a large number of Niagara rooters.

Earlier in the season Kimberly defeated the Niagara Gales, who the villagers claim weren't a fair representation for Niagara. The Badgers now have a squad of six footers better and are clever on the floor as well as several of the boys are pot shot shooters.

The champs have sewed up a record this season that probably will stand for many years to come. They have traveled far and wide throughout the state, taking on all comers. Next week they will defend their title as champions at the Hartford tournament. The Kimberly team includes Chub and Elmer Vander Velden, Norb and Joe Gossens, Artie Hofkins, Buck LeMay, Swen Bowman, and Matt Dupont.

Father Hietpas' Midgets will open up the show with a preliminary against the Nicolet school of West De Pere. The Papermakers have one win over this squad. In addition they have only two defeats in twenty-four starts. The opener will get underway at 7:15 with the main tilt starting at about 8:30.

Training Camp Notes

Tampa, Fla.—A couple of days ago, Manager Bill McKechnie said he didn't care how many games his Cincinnati Reds won in the Grapefruit campaigning. He meant he didn't care after the first two with the Brooklyn Dodgers. McKechnie wants to get off to a good start so he's sending Lefty Lee Grissom against the Dodgers Saturday and either Johnny Vander Meer or Paul Derringer Sunday.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Lon Warneke's nephew, Henry Thomas Weaver, who's getting a tryout in the St. Louis Cardinals' camp, is a dead ringer for Uncle Lon in just about everything. Manager Ray Blades even thinks pitching might be included, because Henry Thomas tossed 'em up for three innings in practice yesterday and didn't allow one batter to reach first.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—That Tommy Henrich-to-succeed Lou Gehrig thing is popping up again at the New York Yankees' training base. Manager Joe McCarthy has ordered Tommy, the regular right fielder, to get some infield work at the initial corner while the spring sessions are on.

Avalon, Calif.—Manager Gabby Hartnett is going to give himself and Gus Mancuso a little sideline work during the Chicago Cubs' four game intra-series opening tomorrow. He has decided the catching duties will be handled by his secondary backstopping candidates, Bill Baker, up from Indianapolis, and Bob Garbar.

Lakeland, Fla.—Always willing to oblige, Hank Greenberg is going after the American league run-batted-in record this season for the Detroit Tigers "because 'the boss' wants it." The boss is owner Walter O. Briggs, so big Hank will take a crack at Lou Gehrig's record of 184 RBI for a season this summer.

William Aspinwall of the athletic department said work would be started as soon as WPA funds are released. Crew quarters now are in the university boathouse.

Sportsmen Defend McKenzie's Rule Of Sports Board

Object to Berquist Bill to Abolish Conservation Commission

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The state conservation department, which representatives of all parties agree should be out of politics, will probably find itself as the central figure in one of the major political issues in the 1939 Republican-controlled legislature, it appeared today.

However, the department at a hearing yesterday at which it was attacked seemed to have survived the event with flying colors. More than 100 representatives of hunters, fishermen's and conservation groups in Wisconsin appeared before a joint session of the assembly committee on conservation and the senate committee on state and local government to defend the administration of the department, and particularly of its chief, Harley W. McKenzie, director.

They appeared to protest a bill by Assemblyman Henry Berquist, Rhinelander Progressive, which would abolish the present six member conservation commission, and the job of McKenzie, and replace it with a one-man control by a director appointed by and solely responsible to the governor.

Battle Over Fire Lanes Berquist sponsored his bill at the instance of the Oneida county board, which with other interests in northern Wisconsin, has had strong differences with the department, particularly in the matter of fire lanes which some northern residents want opened to public use but which the department keeps under lock and key.

Berquist assailed the department and its director for "back-passing and dictatorship pure and simple." He said that the entire northern part of Wisconsin is aroused, and declared that the department is not run by the six-man commission which nominally guides its affairs, but by McKenzie himself. He said that McKenzie rules "the most vast bureaucracy in the capital."

Berquist denied that his measure is motivated solely by a desire to "get" McKenzie, but by resentment at his "high-handed methods." Pointing to the crowded room of sportsmen and their representatives who were on hand to back the department and its director, he said they were organized and brought to Madison by "a stooge paper which has resorted to yellow journalism." (Berquist has been attacked, the conservation department defended by the Wisconsin Sportsman, published in the capital.)

Leading off the defense of the department, and vehemently attacking its critics was another Progressive, Senator G. Eric Ingram of Eau Claire, a veteran legislator. He intimated that strict enforcement policies of the department in northern Wisconsin had alienated some interests who were now behind the movement to reorganize the department and to "get" McKenzie. McKenzie, he declared, is "the most efficient conservation director in the United States." Cheers greeted the declaration.

Sportsmen at the hearing were divided about the wisdom of increasing the fee for hunting licenses from $1 to $2 in order to provide funds for the leasing and purchasing by the state of public hunting and fishing grounds, and on another proposal to charge a straight $1 fishing license for both cane pole and rod and reel fishermen. The former do not now buy licenses.

Supporting the proposal to increase the hunting fee were Haskell Noyes, representing the Isaac Walton league, a former chairman of the state conservation commission, Dr. O. H. Schneiders of Wausau, head of the state conservation congress, and numerous other representatives of organized outdoor sportsmen.

Walter Scott, of the conservative department, explained that the proposal was principally intended to benefit the southern and eastern counties, near the centers of biggest population, which have the least amount of hunting land. He said that some counties in the northern part of the state have 250 acres of hunting land per hunter, while some of the southern counties have none.

Scott revealed that the department's plan includes the establishment of half a dozen public grounds in the northeastern Wisconsin area, including: Waupaca county near Scandinavia, Shawano county near Caroline, Brown county near Pulaski, Outagamie county near Hortonville, Calumet county near Dundas, Manitowoc county near Reedsville, Kewaunee county near Luxemburg, Door county near Jacksonport, and Winnebago county near Omro.

Main purpose of the extension of license to cane pole fishermen, its sponsors said, was to raise revenue to increase fishing opportunities. The added revenue, it was explained, would be used to intensify propagation and planting activities of the conservation department. Speakers maintained that fishing is the universal sport, and added that

Why does a woman insist on straightening her husband's tie? Because she is proud of him—he's an important part of her daily "Exposition," too.

Every meal is an "Exposition" for coffee

To quote an old saying, "Everyone speaks of the fair as he finds it." That makes it necessary for your coffee always to be at its best. Of course, that isn't difficult if you exhibit Hills Bros. Coffee in the cup. Its matchless flavor brings instant approval. For sixty-one years millions of women have depended upon its unvarying quality. Again and again they have heard this enthusiastic praise—"Now that's what I call good coffee!"

Crack Player Needs Just 1 Distinct Clue

BY ELY CULBERTSON

A master player, given a distinct clue as to the distribution of two suits in the defender's hands, can work out some very pretty lines of play.

Today's hand is a striking illustration.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 heart Pass 2 clubs Double
3 spades Pass 5 hearts Pass
4 diamonds Pass 6 diamonds Pass
Pass Double Pass Pass
Redouble Pass Pass Pass

A word as to the bidding, and particularly as to the two doubles from the opponents. South, with four-plus honor tricks, and powerful distribution, started with his five card suit. North felt that he had slightly too much for a one no trump response, hence compromised by bidding two clubs, although the suit itself was not biddable. East's prompt double (extremely unwise, by the way) told South quite a bit. Properly used, such a double would not be for penalties, but South, void of clubs, recognized that West probably was using it in that fashion. South's two spade bid (a "reverse") indicated a strong hand and North made a good bid when he went back to three hearts. He knew that North's heart suit was longer and since it could be expected that South would lead to ruff an opening club lead, a four card spade suit would not be enough. When South completed the picture of his hand with his four diamond bid, North realized that the fact that all of his strength was in South's suits and none in his own club bid would give them an excellent fit. Hence he bid a slam. West cannot be greatly blamed for doubling and South's redouble speaks for itself.

In the play of the hand South paid tremendous attention to the two doubles that had taken place. When West opened the eight of clubs declarer immediately placed East with great length in the suit. South, with his four diamond bid, played on that supposition, as well as on the equally sound one that West had long trumps. The opening lead was ruffed with the diamond four and the diamond ace was cashed. A low heart was led to the queen and a second club was ruffed with the diamond five. A low spade to the ace was followed by a third club lead, which was ruffed with declarer's last trump, the jack. Now, although declarer used all of his own trumps and had reason to believe that West still had three, he was really in excellent shape. He cashed the ace and king of hearts, discarding dummy's last club, then led the heart jack.

With five cards remaining in all hands this was the position: South held the K-J-8 of spades and the J-7 of hearts. West had the Q-10 of spades and the Q-10-7 of diamonds. Dummy's holdings were the 7-4 of spades and the K-9-3 of diamonds. East did not figure in the battle. Actually, what West did at this point did not matter a great deal—he could take only one trick. As it happened, he chose to ruff in with the seven of trumps. Dummy overruffed with the eight and led the king and nine of trumps. West was thrown on lead and had to return a spade from the Q-10 up to declarer's king-jack.

If West had ruffed with the ten of trumps, dummy would have over-ruffed and returned the nine spade. Again West would have been discarded the spade. If West returned the seven of trumps, dummy would win, while declarer discarded his spade pack and the spade king and heart seven would complete the picture.

Finally, if West failed to trump at all, but discarded a spade on South's jack of hearts, dummy, of course, also would discard a spade. Declarer then would cash the spade king and would have to make two out of the dummy's remaining trumps.

Just as soon in the Spring as you can possibly work the land is when you should get strawberry plants, and that should be from the middle of April to the first of May. Getting strawberries started early gives them a chance to establish root systems before there is any chance of dry weather. Holding things up. If you have an irrigation system, strawberries can be started most any time.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Nancy Kelly's thick, lustrous hair has been a great asset for her screen career. Nancy keeps her scalp healthy and takes every precaution to keep her hair from losing its beauty.

To greet the spring with a lovely head of healthy hair, you should begin this week to give your scalp the scientific treatments it requires after the winter months.

Men and women alike, usually discover at this time of the year, that they are victims of dandruff. This should not alarm you, but you should do something to correct the condition immediately.

The basic treatment of dandruff is to destroy the microbes which fasten themselves in and about the hair follicles and sebaceous glands of the scalp. There are many suggested treatments for doing this, and today I want to tell you of one which has been tested satisfactorily during thirty-nine years.

May Treat Scalp at Home To begin the dandruff treatments you must invest in one cake of special soap, one tube of a medicated ointment and an eight-ounce bottle of tonic hair dressing, and a good sponge. These will cost you a little over three dollars but they are sufficient for two weeks of scientific treatment.

Every fifth day you shampoo the scalp and hair. Between shampoos you keep both nicely lubricated by massaging with the special ointment each night, and by using the tonic dressing each morning. This keeps the hair dry. It is also important to apply a bit of the ointment on the scalp directly after the shampoo when the hair is thoroughly dry.

This routine lessens the crust of dandruff which has been caused by your hair to look neglected and to fall out.

Special Shampoo

You shampoo with the rich lather of the especially bland soap and a sponge, parting the hair in sections and scrubbing the scalp and hair to immaculate cleanliness. Not necessary, but most beneficial is the herbal preparation which you may use in the shampoo water with the soap, and in each of the two water rinses.

Regular Scalp Regime

After your two weeks of treatment, you shampoo your hair twice each week for one month, and once each week thereafter. The night before you shampoo you massage your scalp well with the fine ointment and between shampoos you may keep your scalp free of dandruff by using a bit of the tonic dressing.

Of course, stubborn cases of dandruff will perhaps need longer treatment than two weeks but eventually these excellent products will recondition your scalp and bring new life to your hair.

The treatment described above (plus the use of a medication which you cannot purchase) is given in certain salons by the institute which makes the products. If these treatments are available in your city, and if you can afford them, I strongly advise you to do so, especially if you are a victim of chronic dandruff and approaching baldness.

The names and prices of the aids needed will be sent you upon request providing you enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a three-cent stamp.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

Never in all history has it been so easy for men and women to become self-educated as nowadays. Be sure you read my advice to Tom. You can procure a four-year course in psychology from this column alone.

CASE M-170: Tom P., aged 27, is a coal miner.

"I never got much education," he recently wrote to me. "Had to quit school and go to work after the sixth grade 'cause there was too many kids for pa to support."

"But I been readin' your CASE RECORDS regular and wish I had more education."

"I suppose it's too late now, especially since I'm married and got a couple kids myself. Is there anything I can study at home, Dr. Crane?"

DIAGNOSIS: It is always a pleasure to a teacher to find a person who is sincerely interested in gaining new facts and more education. Too many of our college students come to the campus for athletic and social events.

Or their parents ship them to us for four years to keep them in a supposedly cultured environment where they can fall in love with others of their sort. The colleges are an excellent marriage market.

Tom, however, can become a scholar and gain an education far beyond a mere four years in college. If he simply studies during his spare time. Most of our knowledge comes either from reading or from experience with real situations in life.

Tom has already passed the practical test of intelligence, which is the ability to adjust successfully to the problems of life. He has a job and supports his family. He has a good wife and two children.

There are plenty of Ph. D.'s in this country who haven't jobs or are working on the WPA or in CCC camps, despite their seven years of college and graduate study.

Educated Man Horse sense and Christianity are the greatest educational needs of modern America. Tom probably has more common sense already than many college students or even their professors.

And Christianity is served up free in every community. It offers him music and educational addresses every week; plus social events of a constructive sort, and excellent recreation for his children.

If Tom wants more education, he can gain it by reading. I would advise him to procure a Webster's collegiate dictionary, for I like its pronunciation key better than any other. A dictionary is an invaluable ally of education.

Next, I'd recommend a good encyclopedia. Tom can procure a wide background of science and art, engineering and history from that one set of books. It he devotes but 15 minutes per day to such reading.

What To Read The Bible will offer him a fascinating account of ancient history, religion and dramatic narrative. By the pages of this newspaper he can keep abreast of current history and politics, finance, medicine and psychology.

Through the mail service attached to this column he can receive free advice regarding psychological problems. This mail service constitutes a real correspondence course in applied psychology. For a single metropolitan newspaper I'll correspond with 20,000 of its families every year, and this mail is proportional for the smaller newspapers.

Never in all history has it been so easy to procure a rich cultural background and wide education as now. Devote 15 minutes per day to it, and you'll banish ignorance.

Dr. Crane will give personal attention to questions on psychological problems. Write him, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Letters and readers' names are never published.

Man Must Return Generous and Thoughtful Acts of His Wife

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Ten years ago I married a very attractive and popular widow. She had a small son and kept on with her work so that he wouldn't be an added responsibility to me. She is a commercial artist with contracts that enable her to do her work at home. Against the doctor's advice she bore me a son because I wanted one. It went hard with her health, but for the first few years she was jolly company and willing to go out or entertain at any time I pleased. I have been out of work about half the time since 1932 and earn only $20 to $30 a week when working, so we can't afford a maid and she has to do the housework in addition to keeping on with her job. I came home unexpectedly one day and heard her crying. She seemed to be praying and was saying over and over again, "Oh, God, let me feel that some one is protecting me just once in my life." That made me furious. I suppose I count for nothing. She is getting so nervous and her hands tremble so that it makes it hard for her to sketch. This is my problem: She begs off on going places with me lately. Once she said: "If you don't want to spend your spare time studying for that civil service examination you are always meaning to take, join a men's club or something. I just haven't the strength left to go out evenings and I haven't the clothes to make you proud of me." Although she is even tempered, another time she said: "I have thought of you first all these years, Jim, and now there isn't much strength left. The doctor isn't encouraging left. The doctor thinks of the children, who need me." Now, Miss Dix, other women do their own house work and go out with their husbands. While it is true that she has stood by me through some discouraging times, don't you think she is forcing me to seek other feminine companionship? Can a woman expect a man to be true when she deprives him of good times? She never dawns my socks or does the things my mother used to do for me. Is it my fault that good jobs are scarce? Must I suffer by working for small pay and have added suffering at home? What would you advise me to do?

DISCOURAGED MAN.

Answer:

Well, Jim, the first thing I would advise you to do is to read over the letter you have written to me very carefully and see how you like the picture of the man you have drawn in it. It is the portrait of a man who is so little and mean and selfish that he has taken all that a splendid and generous woman had to give. But he repays her for her loyalty by contemplating forsaking her when the poor, overworked drudge has come to the very last of her strength and is about to fall dead pulling the load that is too heavy for her to drag any longer.

You think that your wife belittles you when in pouring out her anguish heart, she prays for some one to protect her. Well, face that a bit, will you? It is bitterly true that the wife who has to make the living for the family hasn't any one to protect her. She is on her own, and when she is sick and nervous it seems too much for her. The one thing she yearns for above all else is a strong arm to lean on.

I know jobs are hard to get, but from your own account it is evident you haven't hustled around as you might about getting work. Otherwise you would have been studying for that civil service examination that you have always talked about, and done, nothing about.

You say that other women do their own house work and go out with their husbands. Maybe they don't have to work outside of the home as well as in it. Maybe they are strong and healthy women. Your wife wrecked her health bearing you, so much for her. She worked beyond her strength in the studio, as well as the kitchen and nursery. And now that she has come to the end of her tether, you feel that her not being able to run around with you at night justifies you in going off with other women. Evidently you are going to do that, but in common honesty you should find another alibi besides your wife's conduct. Don't lay your weakness at her door.

Get a line on yourself, Jim, and see how you have fared this faithful wife. Kiss the trembling hands that have worked so hard for you. Tell her how wonderful and brave she has been and how much you love her. And if you can't find any job, do the housework yourself. Many men who love their wives have done it these hard times when their wives could get jobs and they couldn't.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am 22 years old. Have been married and have a baby. My husband deserted me before the baby was born. About three months ago I got a new job and fell in love with my boss, who has been married sixteen years, and I have become his mistress. He promises he will marry me some day. I really believe he loves me and I have all the confidence in the world in him. He can't get a divorce now because he has some financial problems to straighten out. I know in the eyes of the world we aren't doing right, but I wonder what God thinks of it?

PUZZLED.

Answer: You don't have to wonder about what God thinks of your conduct. HE stated it fully and emphatically in the Ten Commandments. Borrow a Bible and read what HE said about adultery and you will have no further doubts on that topic.

Certainly women are fearfully and wonderfully made and their minds work in mysterious ways their wonders to perform. Here you are, deserted by your husband in your hour of need, a victim of man's perfidy, yet it has taught you nothing. Your bitter experience has not even hung one red lantern of warning before your eyes. You rush into an illicit relationship with a married man at the very first chance you get, without even apparently suspecting that you are laying up more grief for yourself.

Can't you see, my child, that this married man hasn't the remotest idea in the world of divorcing his wife and marrying you? If he had, he would get busy about it and be seeing lawyers. Haven't you enough common sense to realize that when a man talks vaguely about marrying you some day it is just simply hot air and is the cheapest payoff he can think of? Don't you know that sooner or later he will tire of you and cast you off and you will be left disgraced and homeless and penniless?

BURST OF SPRING

BY ANNE ADAMS

Here's the dress you want for those balmy days when you can go outdoors without a coat! Anne Adams has just designed Pattern 4073, making it so simple that even beginners will find it a pleasure to use. There's seductive charm in every soft, flowing line! There's originality too (so that you'll know you won't meet your "double" in the next block!) See what an unusual neckline is formed by front fullness joining the yokes. These yokes are part of the bodice back. Indeed, as the Sewing Instructor shows, you have only six main pattern parts, counting both short or long sleeves. Trim with lace—and contrast belt, buttons and ribbon!

Pattern 4073 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes 31 yards 38 inch fabric and 21 yards lace edging; belt, 1 yard cloth.

MARKING A TABLECLOTH Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the proper place to put a monogram on a damask tablecloth. Should there be two monograms or is one enough?

Answer: It is usual to put a monogram on each side of the center where it is fully visible above the rim of the dinner plate that would be placed at mid-center of the table. Or, if you prefer, it is also correct—although not so popular—to put the monogram at opposite corners, midway between the corner and the centerpiece. The reason why this is done less often is that when the length of the table is changed, the monogram will be out of alignment.

CARD-LEAVING FOR A HOUSE GUEST Dear Mrs. Post: My house guest and I were invited to a large tea given by a personal friend of mine to whose house I go quite frequently. My house guest was a stranger to this friend, however, and had been asked because she was staying with me at the time of the party. I left no card at the tea. Shouldn't my guest, who was a stranger to the hostess, have left her card? She thought not.

Answer: She thought correctly. In the first place, she was a stranger to the hostess and asked merely because she was visiting you. She would therefore have had no reason for wanting to keep her name on your friend's visiting list (this is why a guest is supposed to leave a card at a tea). In the second place, it would still be the hostess's duty as an elder resident to call on the stranger for your town to live. In any case, leaving cards at receptions and teas is an almost discarded custom!

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER Oceans and Ocean Life IV—Flower-Like Animals

Among the blossoms which please our eyes are the "anemones" (pronounced "uh-nem-o-nees") or "wind flowers." They are of many colors, and brighten the outdoors in spring-time.

Under the waters of the oceans are "sea anemones." They cling to the sea bottom, to seaweeds, and to rocks. Brilliant red, yellow, blue, green, pink and purple are among their colors. One kind has a green body and a white "flower."

What we may call the body is often shaped like a vase. Standing firmly in place, it holds a kind of "bouquet" at the top.

At the top of the body is the mouth, and spreading out around the mouth are tentacles. These tentacles are long and strong. They are used for stinging, and often can send poison into a small animal which comes within their grasp.

The body is a kind of tube. Most often it stands only a few inches high, but some sea anemones are more than four feet high. In the China sea, these animals have been known to have bodies as much as three feet thick!

Yes, they are animals, even if they look like flowers. They have mouths and stomach parts and muscles. They usually spend their lives in a certain place, but they have the power to move very slowly, with a sliding motion of the body.

Most kinds of sea anemones are hatched from eggs. After hatching, they rise in the tube and swim out of the parent's mouth! For a short time, they move about in the water, but then they find a place to rest, a place which they can make their lasting home.

Other kinds of sea anemones produce young by "budding." The "buds" form on the side of the tube-like body, and after reaching a certain age they break away.

Sea anemones may live to a ripe old age. In some years 1000 Sir John Dalrymple, one of them up off the coast of Scotland, and kept it as a "pet" in a tank filled with sea water. It lived for 59 years after being captured!

During a period of six years, Dalrymple kept a record of the young of this sea anemone, which he named "Grannie." In those six years, Grannie was the mother of 276 young ones.

Sometimes a young one does not settle on a rock, seaweed or the ocean bottom. Instead it fastens its body to the shell or back of a living animal!

Many cases are known where a sea anemone has settled on the back of a hermit crab. The crab does not seem to mind, since its guest is a guard, saving the crab from attacks of enemies which fear the stinging tentacles.

On its part, the sea anemone likes to be aboard a crab. When the crab captures a victim, the anemone bends its body and helps eat the "game."

DANGEROUS SERVICE

by GRACE ELLIOTT TAYLOR

buildings, the immense stone fortresses of Vienna, where the Schutz-bundler had fought desperately. Where she had gone down to help the women and children, after the machine gun fire had ceased. It seemed extraordinary that Petronella was not yet twenty-one. Many experiences, and emergencies, had given her charm, assurance, and personality. She had seen a good deal for a girl of her age and type. He was glad they were calling this halt and holiday. He hoped (vainly, he feared) that she might agree to marry Michael. He could offer her a life for which she was excellent.

"And I," thought Peter, "don't need her any more." He could not have done as well as she had without her. Special correspondent, instead of war correspondent, in two years, was not a bad start. But he had learned his job, he considered. He did not need restraining continually, as he had done at first. The intense excitement of youth were dying. But the thought of typing and checking up on all his own stuff appalled him. He had left so much of that kind of thing to her. It was time he stopped leaving so many gaps for verifications, figures, statistics to be painstakingly filled in while he rushed on to something new.

Separation was bound to come some time. He'd assure her again of the foolishness of her persistence about Tony Lance. She had not heard a word from the man since he left her those roses in Moscow. They had missed being in England at the same time by two weeks. Now he was in Abyssinia. And rightly so, thought Peter, who had come from Rome. He was likely to remain there for some time. From Petrel's point of view, Tony Lance, continually engaged upon "confidential" government service, was a bad bet, and it was time the poor sweet realized it. She ought to be more like Marigold. She had not wasted much youth waiting for him. She had married Jeremy Now he was godfather to her small son, Jeremy Peter; who had cut two teeth.

"There's Mike"

The plane was banking. They were coming down. Below them the tall white buildings of Alexandria looked like toys.

There were two gray ships of the British Navy lying at anchor in the blue harbor, a cruiser and a battleship. There was a cluster of little boats round them. A navy pinnace, its ensign fluttering, spray flying, was speeding shorewards. It left a trail of white wake behind. Now they were going to land on the dried green landing ground of the modern airport. They could smell the earth and the grass. They held the arms of their chairs for the moment of impact. Their pilot made a perfect three-point landing.

"There's Mike come to meet us!" "Hello, Mike!" The young man in a palm beach suit came striding toward them. He helped Petrel to alight, and kissed her firmly on the lips. "Might as well begin as I intend to go on! You're looking marvelous! Hello, Peter, you old dog. How are you both? They'll take your bags to the customs. It was great you managed to desist from your infernal snooping to come. I've been behaving like a lunatic ever since I got your wire."

"We couldn't have done it if your sister hadn't lent her flat," Petronella thanked him. "I've been filling the woman's page of the News with travel talk lately. Peter said I'd need some new clothes, so we're still pretty broke!"

"You'll need them! You're going to dance and go places till you know for mercy. In case you don't know it, the social life here at Christmas is strenuous going. The English Colony give parties, the Greek Colony throw Arabian nights' junketings. The French Colony entertain, and the Maltese Colony invite—we can go to them all in turn, if it interests you. Those ships are in, as you saw. So everyone is entertaining, and being entertained by the Navy. There are four cocktail parties for you this evening, followed by dinner with me, then on to a Cabaret with the Corallias. Remember them? After that, we dance till daybreak with the Popokos. You wait it will be some dance. If you've never been to a Greek party, you have lots to learn. They give the most amazing shows of all."

"Mike! Stop it! Peter and I have been living a quiet, orderly life in an Italian village. We'll never stand it." He laughed at her. He put a card into her hands.

"This is an invitation you'll have to answer formally—the Consulate at home. You won't be able to get food and drink to your mouth, there will be such a crush. But I want you to meet H. E. my boss."

"What is he like?"

"Very tall, gray haired, and charming. I like him a lot. Marjorie told me to give you this." He handed her a letter. "Imagine it contains a few home truths about the servants, and tells you where to find the key to the cupboard."

Michael had a Consulate car and driver waiting outside the airport. Having passed customs and stowed luggage, they bumped their way along a bad road to the town, through the traffic of the suburbs and on to the Corniche.

"What a wonderful road!"

"Yes—new during the last five years." They passed pleasant gardens and residential houses towards Rareleh, where his sister, married to a man in the cotton industry, habitually lived. She had gone home for Christmas to England.

Wasted Jealousy

"Is your mother better?"

"Oh yes, having succeeded in frightening Marjorie home in time to hang up her stocking, she's booted up as fresh as the first primrose. Dear old fraud! How were things with Mussolini, nice and peaceful?"

"As a firework before you light it," Peter grinned.

"The Italians aren't very popular here, at present. The French are scared stiff for their connections between Toulon and Algiers. I suppose they're talking war in Rome? It is pretty obvious, isn't it? And this Walwal incident is the beginning?"

"Inevitable. Petrel has met him. Ask her if she'd care to try to stop him getting anything he'd set his mind on."

Michael looked at Petronella's face and smiled. "I don't feel like discussing trouble just this minute. And if you ask me, Petrel has had enough of it, thanks to you. Your letters from Vienna last summer made me want to come and punch Peter's fat head for him, for having you there." He spoke in a tender, protective way.

She laid a hand lightly on his arm in thanks.

"I wasn't sorry when I heard your friend, James, had broken his leg skiing, the first time he was there, and had to go home," Michael went on.

"You're ill-natured and your jealousy is wasted. James is going to marry my little Russian cousin, eventually, isn't he, Peter?"

"So you say. He doesn't know about it yet. But he certainly seems to have fixed the shop up for them. Perhaps that is a sign of love."

"Are you talking about that wisp of attraction, Tamara what's her name?"

"Yes, She and her father have opened a little photographer's shop in Ballfield. They live over it. They got on father's nerves. A relation died, and left him some money, so he settled some of it on Tamara, to get rid of them. He lives in London most of the time at his Club. Our cottage is waiting for us. But we don't return."

Michael swung the car into the drive of a large house.

"Here we are. Flat Number Five."

"It's lovely, Mike. Within sight of the sea."

"You've got to change. I'll be back!"

He had gone. Having explored it, they stood in the charming hall of their temporary home.

"I clear forgot to let Rowdon know where we are," said Peter.

"And I haven't any black silk socks."

"I'd have cabled and gone shopping for you."

"I'm not blaming you. I said I'd do both jobs myself."

She went to the telephone. Putting down the receiver, she told him, smiling, "The operator is asking the main store to send a pair, size nine, to Mike's apartment. They couldn't send out as far as this. You can cable over Mike's phone."

He had thought that he could get on without her!
